Plan Backed By Leaders Of Congress

Some Applauding Idea Think Little Will Come Of It

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—A number of congressional leaders today sprang to the support of President Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military blueprints.

There were some scattered objections from both Republicans and Democrats and even some of those applauding the idea seemed to think little would come of it.

Democratic leaders of the Senate and House warmly endorsed the President's plan, but Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said he would "wait until the President returns here and makes his report to the nation on Geneva before I'll have something to say."

First Step To Peace?

His counterpart in the House, Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts, said Eisenhower's proposal "could well be the first step in more cordial relations" and "it might be the step which would lead to peace."

Democratic leaders in both chambers said they had received advance word, along with the Republicans, that the President planned to make his dramatic offer at the Geneva Big Four meeting.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Foreign Relations Committee said he had not been advised beforehand, however, and he expressed doubt that the Russians would accept.

News of the president's offer was quickly broadcast around the world by transmitters of the government's Voice of America.

George's Comment

Commenting on the proposal, Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"We certainly have nothing to lose from the military viewpoint, because we live in a fishbowl. This is manifestly so because matters in a free country cannot be kept secret, whatever their nature or character may be."

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, summed up the views of many members when he said:

"We are back of the President on every proposition which promises to lead to permanent peace. At the same time, however, we are keeping our fingers crossed and our powder dry."

Big 4 Ministers Meet In October

GENEVA, July 21 (AP)—The Big Four chiefs of government agreed in principle today that their foreign ministers should meet again in Geneva in October to continue discussions on unification of Germany and European security.

The foreign ministers spent two hours this morning in an effort to lay down a set of common principles on which to base their further approach to the two closely linked problems.

The foreign ministers — John Foster Dulles of the United States, Harold Macmillan of Britain, Antoine Pinay of France and V. M. Molotov of Russia — made little progress and agreed only to continue the discussion tomorrow.

The afternoon meeting of the chiefs of government took note of the fact that these questions, particularly the new proposals put forward at the summit talks, would require months of study by government experts and they agreed that, in principle, the discussions should continue here in October.

Air Force Chief Offers To Cut Outside Business Connections

Talbot Defends His Actions At Hearing

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbot offered today to give up his outside business interests, if investigating senators think that would help the Air Force.

Talbot testified in a hearing, public at his request, after reports appeared that he sent out letters from the Pentagon drumming up business for his industrial engineering firm.

He vigorously defended the propriety of his actions as a partner in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., of New York, but said he would get out of the firm Aug. 1 "if you believe it to the advantage of our United States Air Force."

Photos Of Letters Printed

Talbot appeared before the Senate Investigations subcommittee in a hearing called after The New York Times had printed photographs of texts of letters from Talbot to businessmen.

The Mulligan firm does analyses of clerical costs, for a fee. The Times said that among the firms which granted Mulligan a contract was Avco Manufacturing Co., of New York, which is a big defense contractor.

Other firms the paper listed as having hired Mulligan since Talbot became secretary included Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Olin Industries, the Greyhound Corp., and Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., Toledo. In every instance, the Times said, the files showed that Talbot wrote the company with a request for an appointment for Mulligan or his associates.

Talbot asked hearing Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate subcommittee, denied the publication had anything to do with calling this afternoon's hearing, though there had been no sign of any such public session until the Times disclosures came out.

Talbot this morning asked for a public hearing "as soon as possible, so that the public may have a complete understanding and the accurate information about this matter."

Talbot told the senators, when he took the stand, that it is "a shocking thing to point a finger of suspicion at a man who doesn't deserve it. I don't think I deserve it."

Boy, 12, Hammers Cattle To Death 'Just Like On TV'

METHUEN, Mass., July 21 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy, who said TV shows had inspired him to kill eight cattle and four goats with a hammer, today was scheduled for juvenile court action.

The boy's name was not disclosed by police.

Police Chief Cyril Feugill said the boy told him he struck each animal on the head as they stood in stalls of the Lowell Cattle Co. He said he had seen cattle killed that way on TV, Chief Feugill said.

The animals were valued at more than $400.

Plane With 16 Aboard In Emergency Landing

PITTSBURGH, July 21 (AP)—A Trans World Airlines plane, carrying 16 passengers, made an emergency landing today at Greater Pittsburgh Airport moments after taking off. No one was injured.

Capt. John Helwig, the pilot, said warning lights on the instrument panel warned him of a "malfunctioning engine." A tire on a landing gear blew out after the craft was set down.

West's Big Three Ladies Tie Up Traffic In Geneva

GENEVA, July 21 (AP)—The wives of the Western Big Three, wearing their loveliest gowns, attracted far more attention tonight than did Geneva's famous striptease cabaret just 50 feet around the corner.

Crowds pushed and shoved and craned their necks to get a look at the first ladies who were the guests of Mrs. Max Petitpierre, wife of the Swiss president.

All of the ladies' husbands, plus the Russian delegation, and one lady, dined in dinner jackets at the nearby Palais Eynard.

The lone woman at the otherwise stag affair was Miss Frances Willis, American ambassador to Switzerland. The Russians had no representation at the ladies' party because they left their wives in Moscow.

The dresses of the Big Three ladies were dazzling.

Adams Refuses Bid To Testify On Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Sherman Adams, the President's right hand man, refused today to testify in the Dixon-Yates probe and a Senate subcommittee promptly blasted his attitude as "tantamount to suppression of evidence of possible crime and corruption."

One reason given by Adams for steering clear of the inquiry was "my official and confidential relationship" to President Eisenhower.

A subcommittee headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) fired back a letter saying "we can see no justification for your refusal to testify" and strongly urging him to reconsider.

The White House said Adams had left for the day and could not be reached for comment.

Fifth Claim Of Privilege

The Adams turnaround, the subcommittee said, was "the fifth instance of a claim of privilege by officials of the executive department"—a claim it said was tantamount to suppression of evidence.

"Not even the privilege of attorney-client can be used for such a nefarious purpose," the three-man subcommittee asserted in its letter to the presidential aide.

The widening storm over the defunct Dixon-Yates power contract also brought a charge from Sen. Anderson (D-NM) that the Budget Bureau was guilty of "a deliberate cover-up" in the case.

"There has been more amnesia in Washington on Dixon-Yates than there has been in the entire history of the medical profession," Anderson told the Senate.

Chronologies 'Incomplete'

The New Mexico senator was banging away at another prime target in the investigation—the omission of two key names from chronologies of the Dixon-Yates negotiations. Eisenhower had ordered the chronologies made public, claiming that they would air the whole deal.

Anderson said the omitted names were those of Adolphe H. Wenzell, who served as an unpaid consultant to the Budget Bureau at the same time as he was a vice president of the First Boston Corp., and Paul Miller, another First Boston executive. First Boston, a New York financial house, subsequently became the fiscal agent for Dixon-Yates in the plan to build a 107-million-dollar private power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

Armistice HQ Wrecked

Anti-Communist demonstrators yesterday wrecked the interior of Saigon's Majestic Hotel, site of headquarters of the Indian-Canadian-Polish Armistice Control Commission.

As a result, these developments took place here today, according to British informants:

1. The commission has called on Eden and Molotov for new instructions which they said the rioting has made necessary. It told the two statesmen continued supervision of the truce in South Viet Nam is being made extremely difficult by conditions of near lawlessness.

Nehru Takes Hand

2. Prime Minister Nehru of India sent messages to Eden and Molotov calling for adequate protection of the commission.

3. The Diem government failed, in the view of British, French and Soviet diplomats here, to live up to a provision of the cease-fire agreement which fell due yesterday. That was to join the Communist North Viet Nam regime of President Ho Chi-minh in discussions on elections to unite the country by July, 1956.

With the coming into force of the Austrian independence treaty expected later this month, the Red organizations were faced with leaving the country or registering. They chose the latter.

Tenants Who Balked At Oath Are Upheld

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—A high court ruled today that tenants can't be evicted from government housing projects just because they refuse to swear they are not members of a subversive organization.

The U.S. Court of Appeals said the attorney general's subversive list was intended for use in screening government employees, "not tenants."

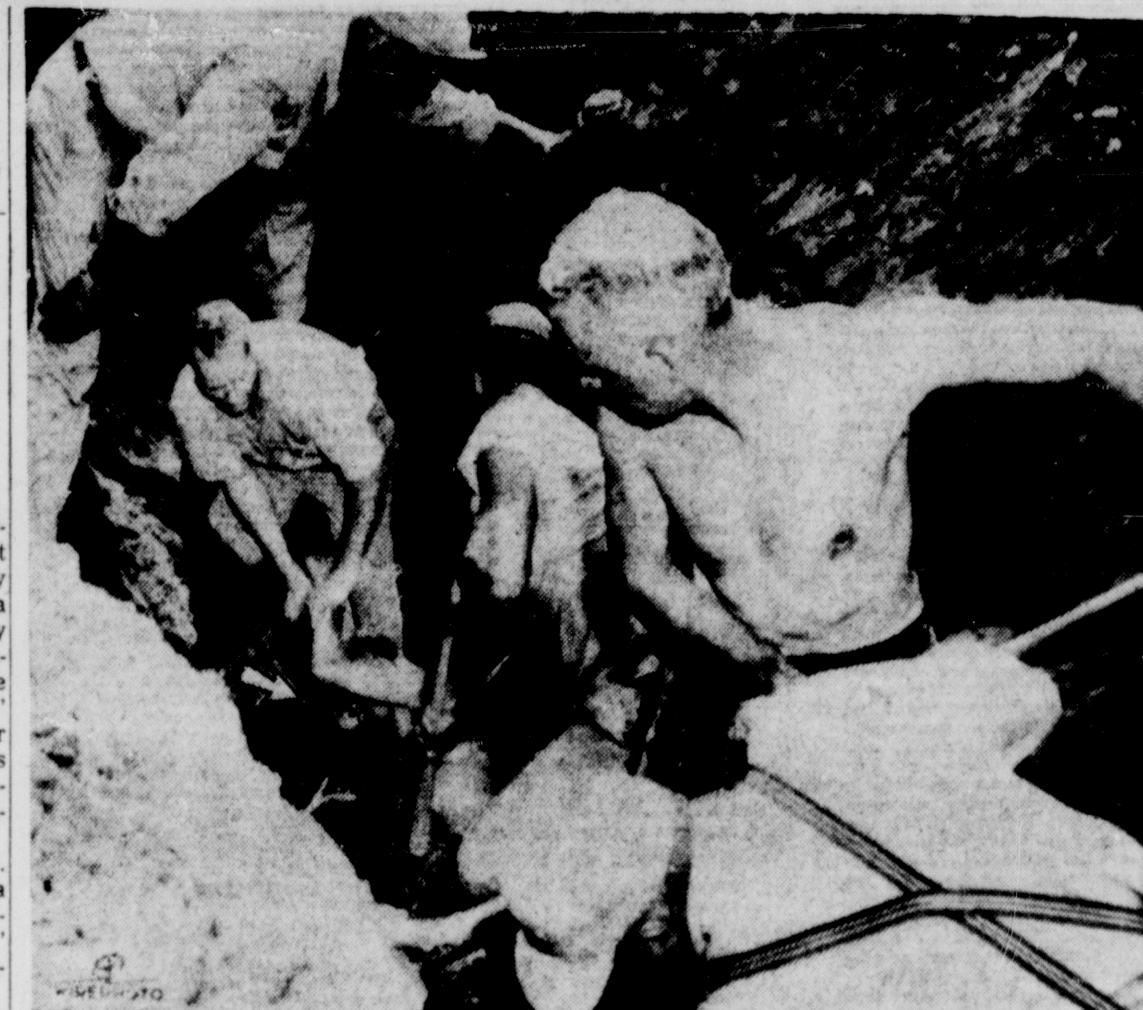

It acted in the case of John and Doris Rudder, whom the National Capital Housing Authority tried to oust from their apartment in Lincoln Heights Dwellings, a low-cost housing development here.

In 1953 the housing authority asked the Rudders and other tenants to sign a certificate that they do not belong to any of the nearly 300 organizations on the attorney general's subversive list. The Rudders refused to sign.

"Gnat" Passes Test

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—Air Ministry officials said today that Britain's smallest and lightest fighter plane, the Pottland Gnat, made a successful maiden flight July 18.

Although details of its specifications and performance are secret, the turbo-jet powered craft is expected to reach supersonic speeds.

Worker Trapped In Trench Freed

Joseph Lucas (arrow), superintendent of streets at Spring Valley, Ill., is being dug out of a sewer trench after the side collapsed yesterday, burying Lucas and two other workers. Lucas and Peter Terando were rescued unhurt. Peter Ferrari, 60, was completely buried and died before he could be reached by diggers.

Rising Viet Nam Tension Studied By Eden, Molotov

GENEVA, July 21 (AP)—British and Russian started informal talks here today on the troubled situation in Viet Nam, where supervision of the armistice stands endangered.

Prime Minister Eden and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, who presided over the 1954 Geneva conference which produced the armistice, talked briefly about new troubles that have flared in the divided Indochinese territory.

They discussed the problems arising out of the riot in Saigon yesterday. And they arranged to talk more about them tomorrow night when Eden is to be the dinner guest of Soviet Premier Bulganin.

U. S. Production, Personal Income At All-Time High

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Americans this spring made and spent more money, produced more goods and held more jobs than ever before.

The President's Council of Economic Advisors, in the July issue of its "economic indicators," reported that national production in the April-June quarter reached the terrific rate of 383 billion dollars a year.

That compared with the 364½ billion dollar rate achieved in the previous most prosperous year, 1953.

Personal income, the presidential advisors said, exceeded "the 300 billion level for the first time in the history" as industry rehired laid-off workers, added new help, and yielded large pay increases to major unions.

Of the estimated $300,300,000,000 personal income rate, some $267,000,000,000 was classed as "disposable"—meaning, available for spending after taxes were taken out.

Bomb Explodes In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 21 (AP)—Downtown Buenos Aires was rocked early today by the explosion of a terrorist time bomb in front of a Peronista political school. The blast shattered windows in the area, damaged an automobile and caused widespread alarm in the rumor-filled city.

No one was injured. Police threw a heavy guard around the vicinity of the school, which gives courses in the principles and political practices of President Juan D. Peron's dominant political party.

Argentine radio stations said later new "waves of rumors," some of them "fantastic," were circulating in the capital about the Peron government. The stations, controlled by the government, added the President was winning strong support for his program of political pacification announced after the abortive June 16 revolt against his regime.

The radio stations read again a government statement denouncing rumormongers and asserting the "nation is tranquil." The statement was broadcast four times last night.

Student To Face Murder Charge In Girl's Slaying

REDDING, Calif., July 21 (AP)—A frail University of California student will be charged tomorrow with the murder of 14-year-old Stephanie Bryan, who disappeared April 28 while on her way home from school in Berkeley, Prosecutor J. Frank Coakley said today.

Coakley made the announcement after positive identification of Stephanie's body was made by her dentist, Dr. R. R. Hanson. The body, badly decomposed, was found last night in the remote Trinity County area of northern California.

It had been buried in a shallow grave near a cabin owned by the family of Burton Abbott, 27, Abbott, an economics student at the University of California in Berkeley, is the one Coakley said he will charge with murder. He has been questioned about Stephanie's disappearance since last Friday, but has steadfastly maintained innocence of the crime.

George S. Loquvam, pathologist of Alameda County, in which Berkeley is located, said Stephanie could have been beaten to death or strangled.

He said an autopsy showed multiple skull fractures, and that a cloth had been knotted around the girl's neck. He added, however, that he doubted whether a specific cause of death could ever be determined.

Dead Man's Cabin

Loquvam said the body was so badly decomposed there was no way of determining whether Stephanie was sexually molested.

The remote cabin near where Stephanie's grave was found is known in the Trinity area as Dead Man's Cabin. It derives its name from a murder committed there in 1948.

Abbott, after he was arrested last night, repeated his story that he had stayed there the night Stephanie disappeared, but continued to maintain that he knew nothing of the girl.

"Luxury Cruise" Becomes Nightmare On Jinx Ship

SAN PEDRO, Calif., July 21 (AP)—The steamship Mazatlan rested her hull in a drydock today after a 30-day cruise that started as a luxury trip and ended with passengers subsisting on pancakes and rations from lifeboats.

There were 172 passengers at the start of the trip but only three rode out the voyage on the 375-foot vessel. The others found alternate ways to get home.

The Mazatlan apparently wasn't meant to ply Pacific waters along Southern California and Mexico, anyway. Christened the SS Alaska, the ship had been in service in the Far North for about 30 years.

As the Mazatlan, her troubles began shortly after she left San Diego on the voyage to Acapulco, At one time she was helplessly adrift for 20 hours. She was reported sunk. The propeller was bent when she ran over a buoy chain. The galley caught fire. Two other fires were started in mattresses of passengers.

On the Alaska run it was nice that staterooms were built close to boiler rooms to ward off wintry blasts. When the ship hit 120-degree heat off Baja California, it was not so nice. And there was no air conditioning.

Virginia Snow, a newspaperwoman from Mexico City and one of three passengers who stuck with the ship until it reached here, told of the ship's troubles.

On the return trip the ship was out of potatoes, butter, vegetables and meats. Finally, Miss Snow reported, the menu dwindled to a steady diet of pancakes. On the last day emergency food kits in lifeboats were opened.

Soviet Union Is Challenged By President

Offers To Exchange Blueprints, Permit Aerial Inspections

GENEVA, July 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower offered today to pinpoint American military establishments and let them come under the eyes of Russian aerial inspection teams — in return for reciprocal action by the Russians.

This proposal that the world's two greatest powers exchange "a complete blueprint of military establishments" and ease the fear of war was made in a dramatic afternoon session of the summit conference.

The President said he suggested the plan in order to convince everyone "of the great sincerity of the United States in approaching this problem of disarmament." His statement was directed straight at Russia. Eisenhower asked that this step of restoring mutual confidence between the two great nuclear weapon powers be taken immediately.

Soviets "Deeply Moved"

Conflicting accounts came out of the conference room on the Soviet reaction. White House press spokesman James Hagerty said the Russians listened, but made no comment. A French spokesman, however, quoted Soviet Premier Bulganin as saying:

"We have all been deeply moved by the very sincere declaration just made by President Eisenhower on what is probably the most important question before the conference."

Eisenhower's offer, in his own words, is:

"To give each other a complete blueprint of our military establishments, from beginning to end, from one end of our countries to the other; lay out the establishments and provide blueprints to each other."

Air Photography Facilities

"Next, to provide within our countries facilities for aerial photography to the other country—we to provide you the facilities within our country, ample facilities for aerial reconnaissance, where you can make all the pictures you choose and take them to your own country to study; you to provide exactly the same facilities for us and we to make these examinations, and by this step to convince the world that we are providing as between ourselves against the possibility of great surprise attack, thus lessening danger and relaxing tension. Likewise we will make more easily attainable a comprehensive and effective system of inspection and disarmament, because what I propose, I assure you, would be but a beginning."

While the President addressed Russia, it was clearly evident that he directed this statement to the whole world to convince doubting peoples of the United States' desire to avoid war.

Confidence Nears End

U. S.-Yugoslav Dispute Bared

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The State Department lifted the secrecy lid today on a long-simmering argument with Yugoslavia over the right of American military inspectors there to check on the use of military aid shipments.

This backstage dispute, accompanied by hints from Belgrade that Yugoslavia might want to manufacture Russian-designed MIG fighters to bolster its air force, has caused a review of the Eisenhower administration's combined military-economic aid program to Marshal Tito's government.

The State Department, in disclosing the controversy, maintained it has not yet reached a point where the United States is considering a halt in all aid to Yugoslavia. Nearly a billion dollars worth of such aid has been expended since President Tito broke with the Communist bloc in June 1948. More than half of this was in jet planes, tanks, artillery, guns, ammunition, transport and communications equipment.

The nub of the controversy is the refusal of Yugoslavia to permit a U. S. military aid mission to make the normal checks on the use of American equipment which all countries receiving U. S. aid have pledged to permit.

Tito's government, interpreting its 1951 military aid agreement very rigidly, insists it is providing all the information required. American aid officials disagree.

10 Die In New Wave Of Morocco Rioting

Pasha Is Fired On, Stores Set Ablaze

MARRAKECH, July 21 (AP)—Ten or more persons were killed in a wave of rioting that swept this south Moroccan city today after nationalist demonstrators shot at Thami el Glaoui, the powerful old pro-French pasha of Marrakech.

One of El Glaoui's personal guards was among the dead, all of whom were Moroccans. Officials said 27 other persons were injured. Dozens of Moroccans suspected of being agitators were arrested.

Demonstrators set fire to more than 20 stores throughout the city. Young Moroccans waving nationalist flags sacked several native shacks, stoned buses and smashed the windows of cafes and stores.

The violence flared during a visit of France's new resident general in Morocco, Gilbert Grandval. Shouting demonstrators blocked the street in front of El Glaoui's car following a welcoming ceremony for the visiting government chief.

Shots rang out as the car came to a halt. The bullets missed the Pasha and only the quick intervention of French police prevented the fiery Berber chieftain—in his 80s—from blazing back at the crowd with a repeating rifle he had snatched from his car.

Moroccan police fired on the demonstrators to clear the street, wounding several persons. Police also killed two rioters who had set fire to a tobacco shop.

Earlier, mobs greeted Grandval with shouts of "Ben Youssef! Ben Youssef!"—the name of the former sultan of Morocco deposed by the French in 1953 because of his pro-nationalist views. The resident general is making his first visit to this city of 200,000 at the foot of the Atlas Mountains.

El Glaoui is the leader of the warlike Berber tribesmen who live in the mountains. A staunch supporter of French rule, he is hated by the nationalists who congregate largely in the cities.

This hate was fanned by the role El Glaoui played in pressuring the French to oust the former sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef. The French also consulted him before placing the present sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat, on the throne.

Texas Flash Floods Cause Heavy Damage

EL PASO, Tex., July 21 (AP)—Flash floods that sent more than 10,000 persons scurrying for safety in El Paso and Juarez drained away late today as the victims dug their way back to debris-clogged homes.

Despite the widespread property damage there were no confirmed death reports.

Flood relief workers were warned by the El Paso Weather Bureau more hit-and-run thunderstorms were possible tonight or tomorrow.

Baltimore Tightens Water Restrictions

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—A modified ban on use of water for sprinkling and car washing went into effect here today.

Residents in even numbered houses, or on the east and south sides of streets, may use their hoses for these purposes on even numbered days of the month.

Residents in odd numbered houses or on the west and north sides of streets, get the water on odd numbered days.

Baltimore has had a complete ban on watering between 4 p.m. and midnight the last three days. Bernard L. Werner, city water engineer, said the ban was necessary because the distribution system cannot keep up with the heavy use of water.

Soviet Union

and television cameramen had been alerted in advance to be on hand where the core of the President's statement was to be read by Hagerty in the glare of lights at a news conference.

It was the major move of the day, and perhaps the most gripping move of the conference, which is drawing rapidly toward a close. Eisenhower insists he must be home Sunday. That leaves at most only two more days for the leaders of the Big Four nations to adopt mutually, if they can, some program leading toward a relaxation of world tensions.

The foreign ministers debated through a rainy morning on how to reconcile, even a little, their clashing views on how to reunite Germany and provide an acceptable security system for Europe. They couldn't do it today. So they asked and received directions to try again tomorrow.

Bulgarian presided at the government chiefs' session and he entered two documents to carry out proposals he made Monday.

These suggested, among other things, prohibition of the use of atomic weapons except for defense against aggression. Even then, his plan stated, such weapons could be used only with the approval of the U. N. Security Council. On the Council, all members of the Big Four have veto power.

Bulgarian also called for limiting Russian, American and Chinese forces to a top limit of 1½ million men each, and others to lower levels. Moreover, he said, a nonaggression pact should be worked out between the East and West blocks pending formation of a European security organization which ultimately would exclude foreign troops from the soil of European nations. Both the North Atlantic Pact and the Warsaw Eastern bloc alliance ultimately would be wiped out.

The Westerners, however, have made clear that they would not permit any tampering with NATO

JP Who Held Off Marshals With Rifle Convicted

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., July 21 (AP)—

Manuel Miller, 47, justice of the peace at Bethel, was convicted today of two counts of "forcible resisting" U. S. marshals with a rifle when they went to his home May 3 to carry out a court order committing his wife Lucille, 45, to a mental hospital.

A jury of eight women and four men in U. S. District Court deliberated less than two hours.

The maximum penalty for resisting a federal officer with a deadly weapon is 10 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. Miller was convicted on two counts, one involving U. S. Marshal Dewey H. Perry and the other, Deputy Marshal John H. Breen. They were the only counts in the indictment.

Judge Ernest W. Gibson deferred sentence until Aug. 8 at 1:30 p.m.—the same day and hour Mrs. Miller is scheduled to be sentenced for violating the federal draft law by counseling nine young men to evade military service.

Miller heard the verdict with no noticeable reaction. His wife, who had attended all the court sessions, likewise showed no reaction. Defense Counsel Maurice A. Broderick indicated an appeal will be filed.

Miller was released in $10,000 bail—the same bail that had permitted him freedom since the May 3 siege. His wife is under $1,000 bail. Between now and Aug. 8 a probation report will be prepared for the guidance of the court.

Miller's 12-hour armed stand seized nationwide attention while it lasted but a volley of tear gas shells late at night forced Miller to throw down his loaded rifle—with its safety catch on—and give up.

Colonel Killed, WAC Hurt As Cars Crash

EDGEWOOD, Md., July 21 (AP)—Cars driven by a WAC private and an Army colonel collided near here last night and the colonel was killed.

He was 40-year-old Raymond J. Belardi, commanding officer of the 17th Anti-aircraft Artillery Group charged with the anti-aircraft defense of Baltimore.

Pfc. Patricia Mae Wright of Cave Junction, Ore., assigned to a WAC detachment at the Army Chemical Center, was taken to the Army Hospital at Aberdeen Proving Ground with fractures of both arms and a knee injury.

The Army said Col. Belardi was just starting out from his headquarters at the Chemical Center on an inspection tour of the anti-aircraft emplacements which circle Baltimore.

The accident was about 10:55 p.m., on Maryland 24, which connects the Chemical Center with U. S. 40 at Edgewood. State Trooper Joseph C. McFarland said the cars collided in the westbound lane of the highway. Col. Belardi was westbound.

MOMENT WITHOUT PRECEDENT — Wilber Brucker, new secretary of the Army, stands solemnly while his wife closes her eyes during a reading of the Scriptures yesterday by Brig. Gen. Frank A. Tobey, chief of Army chaplains, at Brucker's swearing-in ceremony. Gen. Tobey read the 91st Psalm, followed by a prayer. Pentagon officials can remember no previous oath-taking ceremony at which a prayer was said or the Scriptures read. Brucker succeeds Robert Stevens who retired.

Lad Forces Bear To Cease Attack On Zoo Attendant

CROWN POINT, Ind., July 21 (AP)—A 13-year-old boy wielding a shovel entered a cage and drove away a 100-pound honey bear that had attacked an attendant at the Crown Point Zoo today.

The attendant, W. C. McCord, 64, was mauled severely before the boy, Randall Froedige, forced the bear to retreat. McCord was taken to a hospital and treated for lacerations on one leg.

McCord had entered the bear's cage to remove some uneaten food. The boy, who lives near the zoo, often helps McCord.

QUEBEC, July 21 (AP)—A hurricane-like storm reportedly destroyed or damaged some 50 buildings last night in the little community of St. Thomas Didyme, 160 miles northwest of Quebec.

Vermont Blonde New Miss U.S.A.

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 21 (AP)—Comely Carlene King Johnson, who captured the Miss U.S.A. crown last night, won a new title today—that of the busiest girl in the Miss Universe pageant.

The blonde, blue-eyed Vermont Republican, after less than six hours of beauty sleep and while still being congratulated for being chosen the prettiest girl in the nation, began this morning rehearsing for her second beauty contest in as many days.

Tonight the 22-year-old will compete in preliminaries of the Miss Universe pageant, vying with 33 lovelies from foreign countries. Fifteen girls will be selected for tomorrow night's finals.

Miss Johnson, a career girl who runs her own jewelry business in her home town of Rutland, still finds it hard to believe she won the Miss U.S.A. title. She frankly admits she did not expect to win and said that when her name was announced as the winner "I felt sort of numb all over."

She has the perfect Miss Universe measurements of 35 inches at the bust and hips and 24 inches at the waist. She stands a statuesque 5-feet-8 and weighs about 120 pounds.

About two-thirds of United States World War I veterans are still alive.

Group Opposes Renaming Peak After President

CONCORD, N. H., July 21 (AP)—Legislators from Carroll County, whose landscape is dominated by Mt. Chocoma, voted unanimously today to oppose renaming the 3,475-foot peak Mt. Eisenhower.

The delegation reported its views to the House Public Works Committee, which is considering a resolution to rename the mountain in honor of the President.

A committee spokesman told newsmen the resolution would probably "die there without action."

Opponents have said they do not object to honoring the President, but disapprove of renaming a famous mountain.

Boy Killed When He Falls Under Hay Baler

WINCHESTER, Va., July 21 (AP)—Jackie Hubert Orndorff, 13-year-old Frederick County youth, was killed near here today when he fell from a moving tractor under the wheels of a hay baler being pulled by the tractor.

The mishap occurred on State Route 628 near the Frederick-Shenandoah County line.

American home owners in 1954 numbered more than 23 million as compared with about 15 million in 1940.

Virginia League Assails Sobeloff

RICHMOND, Va., July 21 (AP)—The Virginia League, a statewide pro-segregation organization, today voiced formal opposition to the nomination of Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff to be a judge of the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The league's stand was made known in letters mailed to members of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee which will open hearings on the Sobeloff nomination July 26, and to Sens. Robertson and Byrd (D-Va.).

The league said "even a brief review" of Sobeloff's public record "convinced the Virginia league that confirmation of his nomination to this circuit would be a decided detriment to the continued welfare of all of the people of the area covered by this circuit. And above all else, it is the confirmation of Sobeloff's nomination which will be the straw that broke the camel's back in an area where race relations are becoming severely strained due to judicial decisions founded on sociological theories rather than points of law."

The letter said Sobeloff's record shows him to be "a strong advocate of racial integration and, possibly, racial mongrelization—philosophy which . . . can destroy this republic."

U. S. Launches Second A-Sub, Starts Another

GROTON, Conn., July 21 (AP)—The United States put its second atom-powered submarine afloat today, started building a third and promised the rapid production of "many" more.

The 3,000-ton Seawolf was sent down the ways to join—some months hence when her atomic power plant is installed and all the other intricate gear in place—the famous Nautilus.

Mrs. Sterling Cole, wife of the New York representative who is ranking Republican of the atomic energy committee of Congress, christened the Seawolf. But she failed to crack the bottle of champagne on the ship's prow.

The bottle broke after hitting the launching gear.

Superstitious sailors would have shuddered at this—if the Navy hadn't made ready a second bottle carried on the deck and cracked ceremoniously before the Seawolf hit the waves. Failure to christen a ship with champagne is almost akin to an ill-omened launching of a ship on Friday.

In an address, Navy Secretary Charles Thomas summed up the swift progress being made in producing a fleet of nuclear-powered under-sea fighters.

He noted the Nautilus has been operating six months and her "performance exceeded our expectations." He listed the Seawolf, then officially announced the laying of the keel for the third boat. He said:

"This means that this fiscal year the Navy will have eight nuclear powered submarines in being or under construction and, in rapid succession thereafter, many others."

The increase will give top-salaried employees a bi-weekly pay of $284.32.

Church Education Machinery For Children Is Mammoth, Highly Organized Operation

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—When a youngster today becomes a full-fledged church member, he usually knows what he's doing.

"He's been soundly prepared," said Mrs. Alice Goddard, of Chicago, an authority on children's church classes. "He has learned what it means."

Unlike some of the hit-or-miss elementary religious education of a quarter century ago, today's church educational machinery for children is a mammoth, highly organized operation.

"Refreshing new currents have come into the stagnant pool that was Christian education during the 20's and into the 40's," said the Rev. Ralph N. Mould, of the Presbyterian Christian Education Board, Philadelphia.

Protestant Sunday school enrollment has soared from 23 million to about 36 million in that period, three times as fast as church membership growth which itself has far outstripped population gains.

Special classes for Roman Catholic children have nearly quadrupled in the last decade, and the number of children in Jewish synagogue classes is estimated to have more than doubled.

"There has been a stepping up both in the quantity as well as the quality of religious education for Catholic children," said Father John E. Kelly, of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, Washington, D.C.

Not counting "released time" religious classes that have developed in many public schools, the churches and temples—on the side—have organized children's programs that have spread out through the week.

Rabbi Samuel Silver, of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, said one reason for the rise in children's classes is that the number of parents on congregational rolls has "almost doubled in the last decade."

Other factors, too, have contributed—expanded programs, new techniques, revised curricula, better teachers, and the high birth rate—with 42 million youngsters now between five and 19. (Only four years ago, the number was 35 million.)

Next week, about 10,000 volunteer religion teachers and officers meet in Cleveland for the 23rd international Sunday school convention—an interdenominational affair—to review progress, and chart improvements.

It's the 175th anniversary of the founding of the Sunday school movement in England, and it has come a long way from that beginning when it was denounced as "subversive" to orderly worship. "It will destroy family religion," a Scottish preacher declared then. "It's sacrilegious to desecrate the Sabbath with these Sunday schools."

When the idea jumped to America, a Methodist preacher in 1797 was dunked in a public cistern in Charleston, S. C., for conducting a Sunday school for kids. It was, folks thought, a job for the home. There have been rapid, and broad changes—injecting modern teaching notions into churches, production of a steady stream of films, records, charts, lesson helps, project plans and procedure guides.

Many denominations—Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, Disciples of Christ and Jewish and Catholic bodies—have turned out new curricula to make Biblical truths live in a child's world.

The before-church Sunday school predominates in Protestant churches, and most Jewish Synagogues, which observe the Sabbath on Saturday, also have Sunday classes for children.

In most Roman Catholic dioceses the old Sunday school system—by which parents had to bring kids in early before Mass or wait for them to attend classes afterward—has virtually vanished in the last 20 years.

Except in a few instances, particularly in rural and some suburban areas, it has been replaced by religious education classes for public school children on weekdays, Saturdays, or both.

More than two million Catholic public school children now get such weekday religious training, compared to about 600,000 in 1945.

Another three million get religious instruction in parochial schools, and so don't need the special classes.

What gave the big boost to the program was the organization of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine in 1934, as part of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, to put training for Catholic public school children on an efficient basis.

For the first time, it made textbooks, visual aids and other Catholic training materials available on a national scale, and lent leadership to the far-flung parishes in providing classes for children in their flocks.

Witnesses 'Told' Du Pre Had Sought Land Deals

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Three witnesses testified today they had been told Ben Du Pre, suspended State Roads Commission employee, had proposed land speculation deals and was to share in the profits.

But only one—Duke Cullum, Montgomery County cattle raiser and land owner—testified of any direct dealings with Du Pre and his testimony was in conflict on just what the 43-year-old assistant right-of-way engineer was suggesting.

Offers $50 TO GET ACQUAINTED

ED BURNS

"I've made hundreds of good friends here through our $50 Get-Acquainted Plan," says this popular manager of Aetna Finance Co. Any steadily employed person, married or single, can get $50 or $100 on name only for 30 days. Larger amounts to $1000 also available.

Fast service and courtesy are other reasons for Aetna's popularity and growth. Everyone is invited. Come in or phone Aetna Finance Co., 48 N. Centre St. Phone 5233. (Loans over $300 Made under Md. Industrial Finance Act).

Charges that Du Pre tipped off real estate people on the exact route designated for new highways, with the understanding he would share in the speculation profits, are being heard before Russell S. Davis, state commissioner of personnel.

Francis D. Alexander, former Washington real estate operator who now runs a rooming house, spent most of the afternoon in the witness chair as Du Pre's chief accuser.

He testified Du Pre often visited the office of the Basil Realty Co. in Washington, D. C., where Alexander was employed the summer of 1952.

Alexander said he was told by Constant (Gus) Basiliko, one of three brothers who operated the firm, that Du Pre was supplying information about the proposed location of the Washington National Pike, relocated U. S. 240.

"Mr. Basiliko told me that giving him this information... he was going to give Mr. Du Pre part of the profits."

Walter R. Tabler Jr., Du Pre's counsel, objected to most of Alexander's testimony.

He contended it was hearsay evidence, of which the witness had no firsthand knowledge, and should not be admissible.

Norman Ramsay, deputy attorney general handling the state's case, argued the normal rules of evidence did not apply at such a hearing and Alexander was allowed to continue after Commissioner Davis agreed. Davis said the purpose of the hearing was "to get at the truth."

Cullum testified earlier.

He said he first met Du Pre in May of 1952 when Du Pre was trying to acquire right-of-way for the Washington National Pike through his cattle farm, near Germantown, Montgomery County.

About 23 acres of the farm were cut off from the remainder when the four-lane divided highway was built, Cullum testified Du Pre had been authorized to offer him $15,000 for the condemned land but that he went to court and received a judgment for $34,000.

Cullum testified his dealings with the commission, involved not only Du Pre but Chairman Russell H. McCain; Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general assigned to the SRC; former Chief Engineer William F. Childs and Haines B. Felter, assistant right-of-way engineer who was Du Pre's immediate superior.

He testified that although the road is already built through his farm, the State Roads Commission did not pay him the entire $34,000 and did not carry out all the agreements made when he signed over an option to the land.

Cullum, a slow-talking witness who made little effort to hide his feelings about the SRC "crowd" who "stole" his property through "coercion," testified Du Pre suggested that the severed parcel of his farm was not as worthless as he and other farmers thought.

Gov. McKeldin Gives Go-Ahead For SRC Study

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin announced today to Legislative Council members seeking a study of the State Roads Commission he will instruct a new commission he named last week to make it the first order of business.

The governor said he will provide $19,000 for the study and perhaps more later if it is available. The commission is to organize next Tuesday.

Eight of the 20 members of the Legislative Council attended the meeting which was requested by them. The Council, through its president, Sen. Goldstein (D-Calver), had expressed concern over recent reports of land speculators making quick profits in deals with the roads commission.

The governor had his reply ready for the Council which asked for no specific amount from him. At least two of the eight council members present, Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester) and Del. Simpkins (D-Somerset), were not pleased exactly by the governor's decision.

"It certainly is not what we hoped to get," said Malkus who was an ardent advocate of a study by the members of the legislature. "However, the men on the commission are men of integrity and I guess it's a start."

"I had been hoping the legislature would be given an opportunity to look into it so we could get the knowledge first hand."

A bill for a legislative study of the commission with an appropriation of $50,000 failed to pass in the Senate at the General Assembly earlier this year. The Senate also failed to approve a House bill for a study directed by the Fiscal Research Bureau.

"I was interested in getting a thorough investigation," said Simpkins, the House judiciary chairman. "Not one to try to crucify anybody or Democrats or Republicans, but a good honest investigation."

"This is just a study and I don't think it will have the information we want by the next session of the General Assembly in February."

"I also was in hopes of getting $50,000, the necessary funds to conduct a proper investigation."

The commission appointed by Gov. McKeldin to study state operations is composed of 13 members, four of them members of the legislature. The legislators are Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th), Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), Sen. Downey (R-Washington), and Del. Gude (R-Montgomery).

Green Light Denied Assateague Bridge

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today ruled there would be no formal approval of a bridge linking Assateague Island with the mainland until full financing and construction plans have been drawn up to its satisfaction.

In its ruling, the commission implied approval for the bridge would be granted if the financing and technical features of the bridge appear to be adequate.

In denying an immediate green light for the bridge the commission did grant the Assateague Island Bridge Corp. permission to exercise the franchise granted by its charter previously approved by the State Tax Commission.

Hagerstown Will Air Courthouse Problem

HAGERSTOWN, July 21 (AP)—Two possible solutions to an overcrowded courthouse will be discussed at a public hearing next Monday night called by the Board of Washington County Commissioners.

W. Lee Elgin, board president, said the county can either build a wing on the present courthouse, built in 1873, or tear down an old building it owns in the rear of the courthouse and construct an annex.

Elgin said there has been opposition to the proposal for a wing on the ground that it would disfigure the courthouse.

A suggestion that the building in the rear of the courthouse be renovated for use as a county office building has been scrapped as too costly, he said.

School Integration Step Taken By Queen Annes Co.

CENTREVILLE, Md., July 21 (AP)—The Queen Annes County School board has adopted a policy that "no child will be denied the privilege of attending any school unless it is administratively not practical because of overcrowded conditions, transportation or other valid reasons."

The initiative for putting white and Negro pupils together in the same schools was left with parents. School board members, in discussing their action informally, acknowledged it will not end racial segregation or bring about much integration of white and Negro schools this fall.

They expressed confidence, however, that it is a "prompt and reasonable start" toward the ending of racial discrimination in compliance with decisions of the Supreme Court.

Among the 13 Maryland counties with a Negro school population of 20 per cent or more, Queen Annes became the first to take an immediately effective step toward the end of segregation.

About 900 of its 3,200 public school youngsters, or about 28 per cent, are Negroes. Only seven other Maryland counties have a higher percentage of Negroes.

The Queen Annes school board, at the same time it adopted the new policy, made another decision which apparently will have the effect of largely preserving segregation for the time being.

It decided it would continue through the 1955-56 school year its separate school bus systems for white and Negro pupils.

Another practical factor is that youngsters already have registered for the fall term of school—white pupils at the three high schools and nine elementaries heretofore designated white schools and the and two elementaries.

Trucker Is Held In Two Youths' Hit-Run Deaths

BEL AIR, Md., July 21 (AP)—Two Harford county youths were killed by a big truck on a fog-shrouded highway near here early today.

Police said two survivors gave confusing stories, but the four apparently were lying on or along-side Maryland 136.

The truck did not stop but three hours later Marlin W. Landvater, 28-year-old truck driver from Hummelstown, Pa., surrendered to State Police and was charged with manslaughter.

Those killed were James Russell Sage, 17, and Thomas Jay Davis, 18, both of Darlington, Md. Jack Wilson, 17, and Daniel C. Vaughn, 21, both of Street, Md., received minor injuries.

Vaughn told investigators the four had been out on dates together when their car broke down near Churchville, about six miles east of Bel Air on Maryland 136.

The young men walked the girls to their homes at Darlington and then started back to their stalled car about 5 a.m.

Troopers Harry Garcia and Harold Stickler said the survivors gave different stories on whether they were walking along the road or lying on or beside it.

Landvater said he was making a trip to Aberdeen, Md., with 14 tons of bricks. He said it was foggy and the four young men were lying in the road.

Landvater also was charged with failing to stop and render assistance after an accident.

Green Light Denied Assateague Bridge

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today ruled there would be no formal approval of a bridge linking Assateague Island with the mainland until full financing and construction plans have been drawn up to its satisfaction.

In its ruling, the commission implied approval for the bridge would be granted if the financing and technical features of the bridge appear to be adequate.

In denying an immediate green light for the bridge the commission did grant the Assateague Island Bridge Corp. permission to exercise the franchise granted by its charter previously approved by the State Tax Commission.

Hagerstown Will Air Courthouse Problem

HAGERSTOWN, July 21 (AP)—Two possible solutions to an overcrowded courthouse will be discussed at a public hearing next Monday night called by the Board of Washington County Commissioners.

W. Lee Elgin, board president, said the county can either build a wing on the present courthouse, built in 1873, or tear down an old building it owns in the rear of the courthouse and construct an annex.

Elgin said there has been opposition to the proposal for a wing on the ground that it would disfigure the courthouse.

A suggestion that the building in the rear of the courthouse be renovated for use as a county office building has been scrapped as too costly, he said.

Dead Poet, Wealthy Actor Produce Theatrical Event

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—A strange teaming of talents by two Welsh men—one a dead poet and the other a wealthy actor—has produced one of London's most memorable theater events.

Dylan Thomas, the hell-for-living poet who died almost penniless two years ago, and Emyln Williams, prosperous actor-playwright, Using one straight-backed chair and a pile of ragged exercise books as props, Williams recreates Thomas' boyhood in some 15,000 words of prose and poetry. He wears a simple blue business suit and no makeup.

Williams got the idea for his literary one-man show more than a year ago when asked to appear plete program. For a year he rehearsed and polished the show and then sprang it on London. The critics were delighted. The show now plays to packed houses.

Frustrated Elephant

JONES BEACH, N. Y., July 21 (AP)—Two elephants appear in the stage extravaganza "Arabian Nights" at the Marine Theater in this state park on Long Island's ocean shore.

One of them, Shirley, escaped from her cage and ambled onto the deserted stage one morning. Spying a likely tree, she began scratching her back on it.

It was only a stage prop, though. Probably muttering to herself about how everything is so flimsy, these days, Shirley flew into a rage and destroyed the tree.

Guards heard the noise and led her back to her cage offstage.

Thieves Take Car Company At Word

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 21 (AP)—Thieves took a local motor sales company at its word.

Officials of Valley Motor Sales Co. told police recently they were missing a 1953 truck valued at $1,000. The truck, which stood on the company lot, was advertised with a cardboard sign which contained this invitation: "Come in and steal this one."

Twiggstown Club Hears SC Report

The Twiggstown Homemakers Club heard its delegates report of Rural Women's Short Course from the viewpoint of a member of the graduating class. Outlining the week's program briefly, Mrs. Austin D. Twigg described the boat trip from Washington to Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall; a chicken barbecue, folk dancing and group singing on the campus; vespers in the chapel; a reception by the university president; graduation exercises and a tea for the 122 Maryland women, who attended College Week for Women at the University of Maryland for four years.

Mrs. Twigg reported that the week's program was based on the theme, "Living in a Changing World," and quoted Brooks Hays, representative from Arkansas, as telling them that "it is the independence of small nations we are fighting for," and "our greatness in history must be measured by our service to smaller governments." In his address to the graduates, she reported, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald magazine, spoke on the "Price of Freedom," and warned them that peace must be based on unity, not uniformity. "It is a shame," he asserted, "that our sons can die together in a war, easier than we can live together in peace."

Mrs. Hazel Bottenfield was hostess to club members and several guests at a porch party at her home, Baltimore Pike, Wednesday evening.

A brief business meeting opened with the Homemakers Creed. Roll call was answered with reasons for celebrating July 4. Tentative plans for the annual family picnic in August, and a tour of the Celanese plant were discussed. At dusk the group sang "Abide with Me," and "Long, Long Ago."

Guests were Mrs. Stanley Horth, Mrs. George C. McKenzie, Mrs. Emil Tideman of the Polish Mountain club; Charles Frost, Karen Horth and Dale Horth.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

GENEVA, July 21 (INS)—Just inside the lobby of the Hotel Metropole, which the Soviet Union is using as delegation headquarters during the Big Four conference, I found myself invited to a religious rally. A huge poster in French shouted:

"The Bible speaks today to you Billy Graham."

Couldn't spot any Russians about, waiting to talk, so went out to the rally. I had never heard Dr. Graham speak. Nor for that matter had many others heard him in a setting like the Parc Des Eaux Vives, a most pleasant woodland on the edge of Lake Geneva. Perhaps ten or 15,000 sat in a clearing or in the shade of the great old trees.

The evangelist, a handsome man, very tall, bronzed from golf, blue-eyed and long-lashed, worked with a French interpreter named J. A. Blocher, a brisk and bald man who heads the Nogen Bible School in Paris. Blocher was Graham's French voice during his preaching in Paris and seemed to know just when to break in and shout, with evangelistic fervor, a translation of what Graham had said.

Blocher even translated the American preacher's fist-waving in the park of the living waters, shaking his own when he reached certain portions of the translation. Dr. Billy kept him busy.

"The next few days 'could' determine the history of the world," the stalwart man from North Carolina told the congregation of shirt-sleeved Swiss and sweating tourists. "Never before in history have so many looked to so few for so much."

He prayed separately for each of the Big Four and wished mightily "they might be joined by a fifth—Christ." Prayer is needed to put it over as it now stands, he concluded.

Back of the preacher's platform I met a number of members of his "team," as he calls his aides, platform manager, soloist and pianist. They are all young and intensely proud of Dr. Graham and their association with him. Like the evangelist, they are intensely interested in the size of his gatherings. "This crowd puts us just under the million mark for the European mission," one said.

"We did three-fifty (350,000) in Great Britain and better than 600,000 on the continent. This is Dr. Graham's last such talk on the trip. He's speaking to 8,000 ministers at the World Baptist Alliance meeting in London and then home. In London he'll have a talk with the eight Russian delegates to the meeting. He'd like to preach in Russia next year, if the invitation comes through. He talked to about 600 people from behind the Iron Curtain while in Berlin—where one person heckled him and was quickly taken care of by other Germans—and they all spoke of a hunger for more religion behind the curtain.

"I asked him the other day, 'Dr. Graham, would you go to Russia and risk being humiliated and having God's word humiliated?' He answered, 'God's word can never be humiliated by hardened souls. That's the kind of man Dr. Graham is.'"

Another disciple said, "I'll tell you about how Queen Elizabeth came to invite him to speak in her private chapel at Windsor Castle. She was watching him on television on Good Friday and was so impressed with his message she sent word to him immediately. Dr. Graham spoke to 115,000 in Westminster Abbey one night and fewer than 100 at the Queen's service. Later in the tour Queen Juliana had him in for a talk. He's the same with royalty as with a Lum."

A third member of the Graham

Rand's CUT BALTIMORE AND RATE CENTRE STS.

team explained that Dr. Graham accepts no income from his huge rallies. Groups of churches sponsor each event, arrange for choir, band and ushers and split the fruit of the collection plates. Occasionally they will make a contribution to the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, whose headquarters are in Minneapolis. The Graham radio show, which reaches 800 stations a week, costs the association about $25,000 weekly. Graham draws a salary of $15,000 a year. "Lot of ministers make more than that," the young man remarked. Dr. Graham, son of a Charlotte, N. C., dairy farmer, was converted at 16 by an itinerant evangelist named Mordecai Ham. He had dreamed of being a big league ball-player but resigned from his team immediately. "We've been doing some things together I can't do anymore," he said, and gave himself to spreading the word. (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

Defendant Wears Shorts To Court

PHILADELPHIA, July 21 (AP)—A defendant shocked veteran court attaches here this week when he appeared before U. S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr attired in Bermuda shorts and a blue sport shirt with diagonal white stripes.

The defendant, Robert D. Willis, 24, South Boston, Mass., was held in $1,000 bail for court on a charge of stealing an automobile from a hotel in Beach Haven, N. J., Saturday night.

Court attaches said it was the first time they ever saw a defendant appear in the Federal Building in shorts.

Willis was pacified by feeding him. The team decided to buy a bull for the villagers to sacrifice.

Local Priest Is Assigned To New Guinea

A local man will be a member of the first Capuchin mission to New Guinea. It was announced yesterday at St. Augustine's Monastery in Pittsburgh.

He is Rev. Stanley Miltenberger, OFM, Cap., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Miltenberger, RD 1, Ridgeley, who has served with the Order Friars Minor, Capuchin, in missionary work in Puerto Rico.

Temporarily assigned to St. Peter and Paul Monastery for the past several weeks, Father Stanley is one of the priests who volunteered for the mission.

Another volunteer, Rev. Jude Senieur, OFM, Cap., superior of the monastery here, was not assigned to the mission.

The announcement was made at the close of the annual meeting of St. Augustine's Province of the Capuchin order.

There were no changes for SS. Peter and Paul Church, with Rev. Marius Elsener remaining as pastor and Rev. Kenan Crowley and Rev. Gabriel Giles, OFM, Cap., continuing as assistant pastors. Father Jude remains in his capacity of guardian of the compound and superior of the monastery.

Several assignments affected Cumberland men who are members of the Capuchin order.

Rev. Ronald Lawler was assigned to St. Louis University for higher studies. He has been teaching at St. Fidelis Seminary, Herman, Pa.

Rev. Gary Stakem, will be procurator at Capuchin College of Catholic University, Washington, and also be on the mission band there. He has been at St. Conrad's Friary, Annapolis.

A former assistant pastor here, Rev. Ernest Horning, who has been assistant pastor at Sacred Heart Church, Charleston, was promoted to pastor of St. Fidelis Church, Victoria, Kan.

Accompanying Father Miltenberger on the mission to Papua, New Guinea, will be four other priests and a brother.

Rev. Otmar Gallego, who has been in Puerto Rico with Father Stanley in missionary work, will be superior of the mission.

Others chosen by the provincial council were Rev. Paul Sarkas, of St. Augustine's Monastery; Rev. Henry Kusnerik, who has been in Austria nine years; Rev. Berard Tomassetti, of St. Fidelis Seminary. Brother Mark Bollinger will also be on the mission.

Father Stanley has been taking flying lessons here for the past several weeks in preparation for missionary duty in the wild highland country of New Guinea.

Father Henry was at the local monastery last week to give advice on the problems that will face the group.

Safe Combination Printed On Door; Thief Gets $100

HAGERSTOWN, July 21 (AP)—The burglar who broke into the Murgansville Elevator and Lumber Co. last night never had it so good. He found the combination printed in bold letters on the door of the safe.

Bryan Boward, an office employee who discovered the theft today, said the burglar got away with a little over $100.

Boward explained that the safe had taken such a beating at the hands of would-be safecrackers that about a year ago company officials decided to put the combination where burglars would have no trouble finding it. They rarely left any money in the safe overnight.

Last night, however, a truck driver included in the money taken to the bank, Boward said.

Unemployment Drops Again

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—Unemployment compensation claims fell off sharply in Maryland last week.

Most of the improvement in the employment picture was in the counties, and it reflected the fact that larger industries outside of Baltimore have completed annual vacation shutdowns.

Some workers not entitled to vacations may draw jobless pay when a factory closes for the vacation period.

The Department of Employment Security said there were 3,327 new claims last week, compared to 5,143 the week before.

In 1953, one of Maryland's best employment years, there were only 2,643 new claims filed in the second full week of July.

Boy Scouts Set Camp Record For Attendance

Camp Potomac, the Boy Scout area of Potomac Council, is in the midst of its biggest week since it started five years ago. Ross O. Decker, this city, council camping and activities chairman announced yesterday.

A record 150 boys and leaders are at the camp near Oldtown, of whom 131 are Scouts, five are leaders and the remainder the camp staff.

Saturday at 7 p. m. a water carnival will be held for parents and visitors with swimming and boating events along with stunts such as comical relays.

A visitors night was also held Wednesday, and last night a "skill-aree" was conducted to test the Scouting, naturecraft, axmanship, of the campers.

A county fair with games, stunts and humorous booths and activities was staged Wednesday night.

Decker reported that the troops attending the camp this week are Troop 8, sponsored by St. Mary's Catholic Church; Troop 1, St. Luke's Lutheran Church; and Troop 2, B&O YMCA, all of this city.

Troop 39 of Keyser; Troop 70 of Mountain Lake Park; Troop 31 of Red House; Troop 76 of Wiley Ford; Troop 42 of First Methodist Church, Frostburg; and Troop 10, LaVale Methodist Church.

Leaders attending are Arden Kolkhurst, scoutmaster of Troop 39; Lloyd Winner, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 70; Richard Wagner, scoutmaster of Troop 1; Howard Ward, scoutmaster, and William Dickey, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 42.

Provisional scoutmasters for the boys without leaders are Ronald Carpenter and James Rankin, both of Tri-Towns district.

Expert Recommends Spray For Worms

Following an inspection of Allegany County orchards, Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, made some recommendations on spraying for apple maggots, which are also known as rail and tunnel worms.

Dr. Weaver, accompanied by Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, visited a number of orchards Wednesday. The maggots do much damage to fruit each year in this section.

The plant pathologist advises orchards to spray now with three pounds of lead arsenate, one pound of 50 per cent wettable DDT and one pound of captan in 100 gallons of water. Another spraying with the same ingredients should be made about August 6.

Miss C. E. Reith Named Oldtown Music Teacher

Miss Carole Elizabeth Reith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reith, 339 Bedford Street, has been appointed music instructor for Oldtown School in the elementary, junior and senior high school grades, according to Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Class of 1951, she received a music education degree at Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College in June. During her college career, she was active in musical groups. She was a member of the college's Women's Chorus and Mixed Chorus comprised of Lutheran students.

Miss Reith was active in church musical circles in Cumberland having been organist at St. John's Lutheran Church, First Presbyterian Church and Centre Street Methodist Church at various times.

Rizer said Miss Reith will devote her full time to the Oldtown music instruction program. This will relieve Miss Mary Robb of the part-time music teaching at the Oldtown school. Miss Robb will confine her music teaching to schools in Cumberland.

The "Plains of Abraham" are in Quebec, Canada.

These three men will move to Crellin Monday for a week's course in Crellin School. About 12 men will take training there, Powers said.

Youths Receive Suspended Terms, Paroles

Four downcast and repentant youths, from Borden Mines and Morantown were sentenced yesterday in Juvenile Court to the Maryland Training School for Boys as delinquents involved in the theft and malicious destruction of Western Maryland Railway property.

However, Magistrate J. Milton Dick suspended sentence on condition they make restitution and attend Sunday School regularly.

Given a "soft" tongue lashing by Dick, the quartet declined comment before he announced his verdict. They were ordered to report to authorities September 7.

Due to embarrassment caused their parents, Dick warned the defendants that they will have to reimburse the railway themselves by working.

The magistrate placed them on probation for an indefinite period.

Red Sox Defeat Kansas City, 4-3

KANSAS CITY, July 21 (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics' desperate attempt to break a 10-game losing streak fell short today as Frank Sullivan weathered a 3-run eighth inning to give the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory.

The lanky righthander chalked up his twelfth victory and sent little Bobby Shantz down to his eighth loss against four victories. But Sullivan had to have help from Ellis Kinder in the ninth.

Sullivan gave up only five hits and was coasting along with a 3-hit shutout until the eighth inning uprising.

"Political Interns" Visit Capital For "Background"

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Everyone seems to be visiting these days.

The Russian farmers are looking over our farms, our farmers are inspecting theirs, and Iowa students keep popping up here for a look at the political crops in the nation's capital.

The Iowa experiment, if it continues and spreads, conceivably could be a factor in future politics.

For the idea has been to give "political internships" to 12 college boys and girls who are active in politics, to bring them here in pairs for a week's stay, and to try and pep up their interest so they will keep right on politicking when they get out of school.

The plan was thought up by Rep. Fred Schwengel (R) of Davenport, Iowa, and it differs from other plans in this:

It's strictly political. The Republican and Democratic parties help pick the students and help foot the bills.

A reporter who dropped by Schwengel's office yesterday to inspect the two fledgling politicians found Lowell Doud of Douds, Iowa, and Franklin Hartman of Burlington, Iowa, both highly in favor of the internship idea.

"Most college students," Hartman said gloomily, "are tremendously politically indifferent."

Doud has an impeccable Republican background. His grandfather, Eliab Doud, who founded the town of Douds, was a Whig, the forerunner of Republicanism. Various descendants, including Lowell's father, served in the State Legislature.

Hartman has an impeccable Democratic background. His relatives got to the State Legislature, too. "Grand uncles," he said, "before my time."

Doud thinks most visitors miss the point in Washington.

"They look at the physical things here, the buildings, the monuments. But they don't see how their government operates. They don't see a committee in session."

"It's difficult," Hartman said, "to convince people that politics has an intimate relation to their own personal lives."

Although they both have watched the Iowa Legislature, they were a little surprised at how disorderly Congress sometimes seems to be.

"So few members present at any time," Hartman said, "so much confusion, and yet, when it's over, so much done."

Of the two, Hartman seems to have plunged deeper into the political waters.

During the last presidential campaign, at the age of 19, he was a precinct worker.

"I was a volunteer for Stevenson," Hartman said, "and I was on a radio panel in which we discussed the candidates and the issues."

Doud smiled, a little smugly, during this recital.

"Eisenhower carried Iowa," he said.

On this partisan note, the meeting broke up, and the interns hurried away for more political inspiration.

The Baume scale is used to measure specific gravity.

District Youth Is Delegate To Boys' Nation

Forest J. Bowman To See President

Forest Jackson Bowman, of Petersburg, W. Va., arrives today in Washington, D. C., to take part in the American Legion's tenth annual Boys' Nation program with approximately 90 other high school students from all over the country.

Boys' Nation is part of The American Legion's continuing Americanism efforts to teach youngsters on a learn-by-doing basis the organization and functions of the Federal Government and the duties and responsibilities of a citizen.

During his eight-day stay in the Nation's Capital, Bowman will help organize with the other Boys' Nation delegates a mythical Senate, appoint a Cabinet and Supreme Court. The group will discuss two bills currently pending before the Congress and will elect their own President and Vice President.

The youngsters will hold hearings on H. R. 6921 which would make it a crime, punishable by death, to sell narcotic drugs to a minor, and H. J. Res. 98 which seeks to make a Cabinet post of the Federal Civil Defense Administration. They will be guided in their discussion of the bills by members of the House and Senate who will hammer out the pro and con issues of both bills.

Highlight of Bowman's visit to Washington will be an informal talk with President Eisenhower at the White House with the other lads on July 28.

Bowman will tour the Capitol, Pentagon, State Department, FBI Headquarters, Mount Vernon and other historic shrines and government buildings. He will take part in memorial services the Boys' Nation delegates will conduct at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

This year's Nation program will come to a dramatic and colorful conclusion when the Boy President, Vice President and Secretary of Defense review a retreat parade July 28 of 3,000 Second Army soldiers at Ft. Meade. They will be flown from the Capitol to the parade grounds by helicopter and will be accompanied by Sen. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a reserve brigadier general and president of the Reserve Officers Association.

Bowman was chosen to represent West Virginia at Boys' Nation during the Mountaineer Boys' State. He was elected chairman of county executive committee during the Mountaineer Boys' State meetings. Young Bowman will be billeted at the University of Maryland in nearby College Park during his stay in the Nation's capital.

He will leave for home July 29.

Helpful Driver Killed By Auto Along Turnpike

A 27-year-old truck driver was killed Wednesday night while walking to aid a motorist whose car had broken down on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Bedford.

The victim was Clarence W. Haislip of Weems, Va.

Hurt by the same auto which claimed the Virginia's life were Mrs. Catherine St. Clair, 51, St. Louis, and her sons, Cyrus, 18, and Stephens, 13. The three were taken to Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. St. Clair suffered a possible spine injury. The oldest son was admitted with a leg fracture and laceration. The youngest sustained abrasions.

State Police Pvt. John Mengak identified the driver of the car which struck the four as Estella Butler, 39, Wheatland, Pa. No charges were filed pending further investigation.

According to Coroner Vernon Geisel of Bedford County, Haislip stopped his truck when he saw the St. Clair family standing around their stranded automobile. As Haislip walked across the highway the Missourians went to greet him. Just at that time, the oncoming Butler machine struck them.

Geisel said he believed the car apparently went out of control when a tire blew out.

ESTIMATES WEIGHT — Weight tapes give dairymen a quick, accurate estimate of the weight of dairy animals. Now that many dairymen are breeding their heifers by weight rather than age, more and more weight tapes are being used. The tape is calibrated so that when it is properly used it will show the animal's weight within a few pounds. Cliff Perdue of a research farm near Gray Summit, Missouri, demonstrates the correct way to use the tape. The animal should be made to stand with head up and feet together to get most accurate results. The tape should be placed around the smallest spot in the heart girth area. It should be drawn tightly but not stretched. The reading at the point where the tape comes together indicates the animal's weight.

Bedford Fair Opens Aug. 8

BEDFORD, Pa. — Marked by a beautiful grandstand revue, the largest list of exhibitors in fair history and new special events, the 82nd annual Bedford Fair will attract crowds from a 100-mile radius when the gates of Western Pennsylvania's fastest-growing fair swing open Monday, August 8, for the weeklong exposition.

The fair program is packed with many popular features of former years and its entertainment will be spiced with a number of innovations which promise to please and thrill the fair crowds.

Ward Beam's Tournament of Thrills will play open the fair on Monday night, with an entirely new and different version of the ever-popular thrill show. Auto daredevils from three different shows will complete for honors in each stunt — each striving to outdo the other in breathtaking stunts with autos and motorcycles. In the climax, three teams will make the death-defying aerial leap, each trying for a new distance record as cars hurtle into space.

Featuring the ever-popular chorus of precision dancers, George A. Hamid's top grandstand revue will appear nightly. Tuesday through Saturday, in the beautiful "Stairway to the Stars," Elaborately contrived settings will form the background for the gorgeously costumed first-line chorus of 28 dancers, plus six separate vaudeville acts.

Performers, who will present vaudeville acts each afternoon and combine with the night revue for the evening show, include Mr. Ralph, the boy with the teddy bear who comes to America for the first time after triumphs in Continental Europe; Los Wladas, the sensational new performing dove act; the Glen Henry Co., which combines clever stunts by an animal troupe with acrobatics of a high order; the Three Lesters, a comedy team on the trampoline; and the Mazurs, a death-defying aerial act.

More than 80,000 free tickets have been distributed by the Bedford Fair to school children in a 4-county area covering Bedford, Blair, Fulton and Cambria counties, providing free admission on Tuesday and Friday, as well as opportunities to win many prizes.

Harry Lydick, soil conservationist, said that results of alfalfa trials on the Merlin Latham farm in Canaan Valley have been obtained for the first cutting for the second year.

Narragansett, a one acre plot, yielded 7,900 pounds; Grimm, a one acre plot, produced 6,300 pounds; Williamsburg, a one acre plot, raised 6,000 pounds, while Ranger, a one half acre plot, yielded 1,000 pounds. ## Things That Go Bump In The Night: Ghosts?

Do ghosts make sense? We never thought so, but maybe we have no right to judge. Some of their most ardent defenders say that if you don't believe in ghosts, you can't understand 'em. Dr. Rhine of Duke University, who dabbles in the related field he calls parapsychology, has likewise said that the phenomena he studies are adversely affected by the presence of unbelievers. Perhaps for this reason, we have never seen a ghost.

But the believers, too, seem to be having some trouble getting ghosts to make sense. They are meeting, 36 of them, in Cambridge, England, to winnow the evidence about spectres, haunted houses, poltergeists, and things that go bump in the night with a view to discovering the laws that govern their behavior.

Even though no attempts are to be made during the week's session to raise spirits from the vasty deep, the press is excluded. As they say, the subject is liable to misinterpretation: Skeptics just don't understand.

Our ancient ancestors believed in ghosts. They believed in a lot of other things, too — a whole pantheon of gods and devils, in a world whose laws were thought of as supernatural rather than scientific. But even yet Dr. Rhine—who is present at Cambridge, by the way—has failed to convince many scientists that there is anything very scientific about such alleged phenomena as telepathy and the activities ascribed to spirits.

And this meeting, called to try to make scientific sense out of ghosts, almost amounts to an admission that they haven't been making much.

Why do the hard-headed British take ghosts so much more seriously than Americans—who, as any Briton will admit, are much more likely to lose their heads? It is that America lacks hauntable 500-year-old castles.

Co-Existence

The realistic problem that faces mankind is the existence simultaneously of capitalism and socialism. It is not novel that various peoples live under varieties of economic and social systems. Marxian socialism, once it seeded itself in Soviet Russia, refused to limit itself to its own territory. It rejected capitalism not only for Russia, which was a rightful function of the Russian government of the moment, but it engaged upon an evangelical campaign to destroy capitalism everywhere.

The cry for co-existence then becomes a retreat from that original position. The recognition that capitalism is a way of life which need not be destroyed by socialism is a retreat from Marx, Lenin and Stalin. Lenin, himself, for a short period, adopted this attitude during the NEP (New Economic Policy) period. But Lenin quickly reversed himself and the attacks upon capitalism were intensified.

The Hoover Commission boldly asserts:

"Our economic system is based on private enterprise regulated where necessary to prevent monopoly and to provide for freedom of competition.

"The genius of the private enterprise system is that it generates initiative, ingenuity, inventiveness and unparalleled productivity . . ."

Capitalism is more than that. It is an economic and social system which recognizes that the earner is entitled to possession of his earnings, to employ such wealth at his own discretion, at his own risk, for a profit or a loss, without the intervention of government, provided his activities are not illegal, as for instance the sale of narcotics to minors. In a capitalist society, the earner may save his money; he may invest it in enterprises; he may spend it profligately. The choice is his; the decision is his.

It would be difficult to find a pure capitalist society anywhere in the world today. In the first place, the income, inheritance and gift taxes limit the earner's use of his money. A share of it is taken from him by government for its uses. He only has control of that share which remains with him.

Also there are numerous other controls upon individual possession and use of earnings. For instance, as one in this country can employ labor solely for his own advantage; there are limitations upon wages, hours, conditions of work, and in some cases pensions have to be provided.

Despite these and similar limitations, the accumulation of private wealth has increased in the United States and other capitalist countries during the past two decades. Such wealth is not always in the form of money, but in such tangible assets as privately-owned homes, automobiles, refrigerators, television sets, etc., etc. One form of privately-owned wealth that is often ignored in summaries such as this is privately-owned life insurance policies which are a valuable form of savings.

The term, "private enterprise," is used synonymously with capitalism. I do not know for sure when it was first employed, but I recall years ago that there were many arguments at meetings at the National Association of Manufacturers on this subject. Some of the public relations men disliked the term, capitalism, as arising from the mind of Karl Marx!

So they called it the "Profit and Loss System," "Free Enterprise," etc. As I recall it, either James Selva, the public relations man, or John Gall, the lawyer, came up with "Private Enterprise," and it stuck.

Whatever this system may be called, it is now a mixed economy, partly capitalist, partly socialist, and it works well in such countries as the United States, Great Britain, the Scandinavian countries, the Benelux countries and many others, including West Germany. These are the prosperous nations of the earth.

The Communist countries are not doing equally well, particularly in the provision of consumers' goods and in raising the standard of living of their people. Therefore they are forced to retreat and they have adopted the doctrine of co-existence. What they really want is to find a way to trade freely with the capitalist countries on an advantageous basis, so that they can rapidly obtain consumers' goods for their people without too radically revising their economic system. They call it East-West Trade.

It is impossible to believe that these subjects will not be raised at some of the conferences that will follow Geneva. In fact, it may turn out, in the long run, that here may be the principal matters for discussion.

Playing To An Empty House

Geneva Talks Worthwhile Even If Indefinite

By David Lawrence

(This is an outline of the tactics of the Soviet Union, and an analysis of significant information coming from Paris, Geneva, New Delhi and Bonn relating to the future of the four-power conversations.)

Sensational developments may come soon to emphasize the much-talked-of new "spirit" which the Soviet Union is anxious to show to the world.

The Cominform (Communist Information Bureau) which was set up in 1947 to coordinate the activities of the Communist Party in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, Italy and France with those in the Soviet Union may be dissolved.

This would be a first step by the Soviets toward fulfilling the cry for "deeds, not words." But it would merely mean that the coordination will go "underground." For, when the Cominform (Communist International), the predecessor organization established in 1919, was ordered dissolved in 1943, the work was continued in much the same way.

But Prime Minister Nehru of India, who was a recent visitor to Moscow, considers the forthcoming dissolution of the Cominform "logical" now as a corollary to "peaceful coexistence." The Soviets, of course, will argue that the move is an answer to the Allied demand that their activities of a subversive and infiltrating nature be abandoned. It could be a spectacular stunt, with propaganda possibilities for the Soviets.

The Soviet tactics in handling the Big Four meeting at Geneva in other respects have become crystal clear. First of all, the Russians agree to discuss anything that comes up but they are careful not to settle anything.

Thus, reunification of Germany is a delicate question and the world was surprised that Foreign Minister Molotov agreed so readily to put it first on the agenda. The Soviets saw no harm in discussing everything provided they didn't have to reach any conclusion. So Bulganin discussed German reunification all right, but said conditions were not ripe yet and that other things had to come first, such as the need for closer commercial relations and exchanges of diplomatic delegations.

What Bulganin meant, of course, was that the Russians want to talk with Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany when he goes to Moscow, and they prefer to bargain with Adenauer rather than with the three Western governments at Geneva.

As for all-German elections, Bulganin said this was all right, too, but "at the appropriate time."

President Eisenhower and French Premier Faure can argue all they like against delay—as, indeed, they did with Bulganin—but the Soviet have already made up their minds to bargain first with Adenauer after the Big Four meeting. So it is natural for the conference to switch to other subjects on the agenda, and before the Geneva meeting is over they will have talked about everything from the emancipation of the satellite states, as desired by the Western envoys to Geneva, to the "liberation" of Formosa, as demanded by the Russians.

Each side will make its position clear and let it go at that. But it would be a grave mistake to write off the Geneva Conference as just a talkfest. It is easy to underestimate the importance of what is going on in the Swiss town where the top men of the four major powers are gathered.

The pressure for peace which is coming from all parts of the world

Big Four Could Draw Lesson From Swiss Determination To Avoid War

By Drew Pearson

GENEVA — Overlooking this lakeside city where the peace of the world is being discussed are the same Alps over which Hannibal brought elephants in what was then the most modern war ever fought by man. Elephants were the first conception of the modern tank, used to trample foot soldiers, and since then man in each century has developed new and more fiendish instruments of death progressing from the crossbow and cannon to atomic artillery and the hydrogen bomb.

During the latter part of man's increased mania for self-destruction, the tiny Alpine country which is host to this conference "at the summit" has managed of necessity to remain out of war. It has managed because of the grim realization that war meant annihilation.

So perhaps the Big Four meeting here could draw a lesson from the perfection of weapons since Hannibal's time and from Switzerland's grim determination to avoid war. If they don't draw it, other people will do it for them.

For all this week as Eisenhower, Bulganin, Eden and Faure sat around the conference table there have been unseen observers looking over their shoulders.

Those observers are not merely the young men who will meet death if war comes and the mothers who brought them into the world, but also present, peering over the shoulders of the Big Four, is another uninvited observer—the atomic scientist.

Actually, no atomic scientist is in Geneva specially for these parleys. Though they contrived the means of wiping out civilization, no atomic adviser was invited to sit on any delegation staff. But in advance of this conference they expressed their ardent plea to abolish war.

No Defense

For they know what few others know: that a nuclear war might set off a chain reaction which could burn up the atmosphere of the entire earth's surface. They know that cobalt bombs, if released a hundred miles off the Pacific Coast, would wipe out all vegetation in a belt 500 miles wide across the United States. They also know that Russia has exploded a dozen or more nuclear weapons. They know what President Eisenhower suppressed last May: that Russia had exploded a hydrogen weapon just as powerful as the Bikini H-device which caused so much havoc at Bikini.

They also know that Russia has secret bases near the Franz Josef Islands inside the Arctic Circle from which could be launched guided missiles to blow up any American city. They also know that guided missiles are now able to fly between New York and Moscow in two hours. They know that, against them, there would be absolutely no defense. And they know that, when their profession can devise a Hydrogen warhead for these missiles—which they can't today—then Moscow or New York can be blown up in toto merely by pushing a button.

They also know that man, in his desperate desire to protect himself and his fiendish desire to kill others, already has devised preliminary plans for stationing rocket platforms or bases in outer space. They know that tiny, man-made stars or satellites officially called "minimum orbital unmanned satellites of earth"—or "MOUSE" for short—already have been devised to whirl around the earth's surface at a speed of 17,000 miles per hour to serve as watchdogs against guided missiles.

That's how far man has progressed since Hannibal's time in devising instruments to exterminate himself.

Groping For Peace

As a young newsman I accompanied Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State under another Republican President, Calvin Coolidge, to Paris to sign a treaty to outlaw war. Kellogg, of course, was ahead of his time. He realized the horrors of war and negotiated a treaty to outlaw war, but he lacked two important things necessary to make his treaty effective: 1, the bargaining power to make other countries relinquish their weapons of war, and, 2, world realization that another war meant the end of the world.

Just before Kellogg came into office his predecessor, Charles Evans Hughes, had thrown away America's chief bargaining power—battleships. We were then the world's greatest battleship power and we junked them for a treaty which meant great political hay but lost us the power to force disarmament on other nations.

Today we have that power. We haven't thrown or bartered away our huge stockpile of atomic bombs—at least, not yet. And we should not—any more than neutral Switzerland will take the supplies of munitions and food out of her mountain warehouses until real world disarmament is within sight.

Finally, there's the world-wide realization now — perhaps even among the Kremlin leaders so belligerent in the past and so inscrutable today, who seem almost amorously groping for peace—that modern war would mean the end of mankind. So perhaps the atomic scientists who, looking over the Big Four's shoulders here, urged that we outlaw war aren't so far off base after all.

A Tacit Agreement

By Stewart Alsop

GENEVA

The Big Four conference here has now reached its first, and very probably its only, important agreement. The agreement is unwritten and even unspoken. Yet it is implicit in everything that has been done and said since the conference began. The Four Powers, and above all the United States and the Soviet Union, have agreed not to have a war if they can possibly avoid it.

That is about all there is to this meeting. It is the real meaning of the mild and even cordial tone in which the spokesman of the two sides expressed their totally irreconcilable views. It is even the real meaning of the toothy, gold-plated smiles, which Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev bestows on President Eisenhower at every possible opportunity; and of the inscribed desk set which President Eisenhower gave to his old friend Marshal Zhukov to pass on to his newly-married daughter.

At the moment, it looks as though the conferees are going to be satisfied with this tacit agreement to avoid mutual destruction, if at all possible. This report is written in mid-conference, and international conferences have a tricky habit of producing some sort of seemingly important decision at the very last moment. But it is hard to see what kind of miracle is going to produce any really significant substantive agreement here.

During the debate on the problem of German reunification, Prime Minister Bulganin remarked mildly that the German problem "should be decided by time." The meaning of this remark is obvious. The Soviets did not come here seriously expecting the West to accept the Soviet plan for Germany, which would require the dismantling of the Western defenses in return for vague promises. For that matter, the Western powers did not seriously expect the Soviets suddenly to accept a plan which would tie all Germany into the Western alliance.

Without an agreement, or at least the beginnings of an agreement, on Germany, there is not much use talking about European collective security arrangements, and there can be only the most tentative sort of feeling-out process on arms reduction. Perhaps some sort of progress can be made on such secondary matters as East-West contacts, the fourth item on the agenda. But that, as it looks now, is about all that can be expected.

Yet the importance of the silent, unspoken decision not to have a war if it can possibly be avoided should not be underestimated. In the euphoria generated at first by the rather phony good-fellowship which has been the hallmark of this conference, some silly people actually began to expect peace to break out all over, as a result of a few days' chat. In fact, the purpose of this conference never was to reach substantive, meaningful agreement.

The real purpose was quite different. Both sides came to this conference with the same question in the backs of their minds: "Can we somehow manage to live with these terrible people, or must we really have a war with them?" The purpose of the conference was to find the answer to this question. Both sides seem already to have arrived at what is at least a tentative answer—that we can rock along for a long time without a war.

President Eisenhower has assured the Russians, in so many words, that much as we detest their treatment of the satellites, we do not intend to go to war about it. The Russians have made it equally clear that, much as they detest the rearmament of West Germany, they do not intend to fight to prevent it.

Asia, where by far the greatest danger of war lies, has, to be sure, only been discussed obliquely, in informal conversations. But while neither side has budged an inch from its official position, there have been well-received hints from both sides that it would be better to settle such issues as Formosa without shooting.

For the short-run, at least, this silent, unspoken decision to avoid war if at all possible promises a breathing spell, or rather a talking spell, for the world. But in the long-run a tacit agreement to talk rather than fight is no substitute for a real settlement. For in the long-run, the pattern of the present situation, on which the tacit agreement is based, is sure to be broken. It could even be broken in a few weeks, since shrewd observers here are beginning to suspect that the Soviets are getting ready to offer German Chancellor Adenauer the kind of deal he could hardly refuse. On the other hand the present situation could last much longer than now seems at all likely. In the meantime both sides are now convinced that the other side quite genuinely wants to avoid war and just possibly this simple conviction may provide the time to "build the bridge" that President Eisenhower wants to build, across the chasm that divides the world.

If Bill wants to plant admonitory thistles in our national group-patch we're with him to a man.

But with our shoes on.

You cannot claim Mr. Hoover didn't pick big wishes to iron. Desperate ills require desperate remedies. Things got so tough this writer was saved from starvation by an attack of indigestion.

When 1932 crowded the horizon we wrote, "There will be an ouster in November because the month has an R in it."

In a slight difference between Garner and Hoover in 1931 we said, "Hoover wants to give money to the bankers. Garner wants to give it to the small business man. What difference does it make who gets it first?"

It was 1932 that gave us the proud boast, "I was a bum before the depression."

Looking back through the marginal music cues we find that Mr. Hoover has been copy since 1914. Sometimes he was setting as pretty as a nurse's cap. Sometimes the fish couldn't breathe for the parsley.

Mr. Hoover never answered criticism. He was a politician as well as a statesman. He would play you pool or billiards.

And in my own scrap book on his personal stationary Mr. Hoover writes, "Bugs has contributed to the lightness of life over a great number of years—and we have had so very few people who have contributed to that end."

Discomforts Of Pregnancy Can Be Alleviated

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

is done, these manifestations usually vanish by the end of the first three months. Sometimes suggestion plays a part and the tendency is increased by fear, worry, and loss of sleep.

The best management is dietary

Small feedings from one to three hours apart are recommended; fluids should be sipped slowly, in small quantities, and between meals. Chlorpromazine is the latest treatment and motion sickness remedies also are helpful.

Constipation is common during pregnancy and is best avoided by adding roughage to the diet and drinking more fluids. Acquiring the habit of two stools daily is desirable, one before or after breakfast and the other after dinner. Cathartics, laxatives, and enemas are used only as a last resort because they encourage miscarriage.

Suppositories are the least troublesome and act by stimulating the lowermost part of the intestine. The softer bulk forming or lubricating products are needed occasionally. When gas is a problem, don't eat beans, onions, cabbage, raw apples, radishes, or cucumbers. Heartburn can be eased by simple drugs or changes in diet. Burping may be caused by eating too much or swallowing air.

For leg cramps, massage the muscles, exercise the feet, and take skim milk or calcium tablets plus vitamins A and D as preventive measures. Dizziness or faintness generally is of nervous origin and disappears after resting on sofa or bed for a few moments.

Varicose veins may be traceable to inherent weakness of the venous passageways. Discomfort from this source can be minimized by staying off the feet as much as possible and wearing elastic bandage or stockings; never use round garters. After pregnancy, the condition may so improve treatment is unnecessary.

Signs of trouble should be watched for and reported as they arise. Rapid weight gain, swelling of hands and feet, blurred vision, spots before the eyes, and diminished output of urine may indicate kidney trouble or beginning toxemia of pregnancy. Persistent vomiting, headache, and stubborn constipation also require attention. Infection, fever, and cough must not be neglected.

Call the physician immediately when there is failure to feel the baby after life begins. The same applies to spotting, bleeding, watery discharge, or the development of painful contractions of the uterus. If any of these symptoms occurs near the end of the term, call hubby to get you into the hospital pronto.

Doctor Heyman was seated at dinner next to one of those wealthy ladies who pride themselves on extracting advice without paying for it. "How fortunate to draw you for a partner," she cooed. "I have the most annoying rash on my lower back, and I just know you'll be able to suggest a way to cure it."

"No doubt I will," agreed Dr. Heyman cheerfully. "Just take off your dress and we'll find out what the trouble is."

After trying on about a hundred different pairs of shoes, a pernickety lady finally selected a pair. "Want to wear them home?" asked the exhausted clerk. "Oh, no. Wrap them please," instructed the lady. "They're not for me."

Best Cooks Select Canned Lunch Meats

You'll have the reputation of being a good cook if it doesn't take you long to prepare an attractive, good-tasting meal on a hot summer day. All of the best cooks in town have time-saving ideas for warm weather cooking.

Some of the quickest-to-prepare summer dinner dishes start with canned meat. Luncheon meat, top-selling canned meat item, is a snap to fix for the main dish of a meal.

Canned luncheon meat takes on new glamour when glazed with a horse-radish-jelly blend. Here's the recipe:

Jelly Glazed Luncheon Meat
1 can luncheon meat; 1-3 cup crabsapple or current jelly; 2 teaspoons prepared horse-radish.

Cut luncheon meat into eight slices and place in a shallow baking dish. Mix jelly and horse-radish and spread on meat slices. Bake in a 400°F. oven for 20 minutes. 4 servings.

Versatile Luncheon Meat
Canned luncheon meat is a versatile summer meal selection. Besides serving as a main course for luncheon or dinner, it can be prepared for appetizers and summer luncheon salads.

Those who like the nippy flavor of blue cheese will be particularly fond of these blue cheese-luncheon meat hors d'oeuvres. Serve them with a variety of appetizers, including two or three relatively mild ones. Prepare them ahead of time and then pop them in the oven just before serving.

Blue Cheese-Luncheon Meat Hors d'oeuvres
1 can luncheon meat; 1/2 cup blue cheese, crumbled (1 4-oz. pkg.); 2 tablespoons prepared mustard.

Cut luncheon meat into 8 lengthwise slices. Mix cheese with mustard and spread over slices. Broil 3 inches from the source of heat until the topping is bubbly and lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Cut each slice into 8 pieces and serve hot on cocktail picks. 64 hors d'oeuvres.

Summer Salad
A summer luncheon idea that's a breeze to fix is avocado-meat salad made with diced canned luncheon meat. It can be served in lettuce cups for individual servings or it can be made an attractive center of interest on a bed of crisp greens on a cold cuts tray. Here's the recipe:

Avocado-Meat Salad
1 can luncheon meat, diced; 1/2 cup diced celery; 1 teaspoon grated onion; 2 ripe avocados; lemon juice; Salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Mix luncheon meat, celery and onion. Peel and dice avocados; sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Combine carefully with the meat mixture. Add enough salad dressing to moisten. Chill, if you wish. Pile into crisp lettuce cups. 6 servings.

Sunshine Fruit Dessert

(4 to 6 servings)
1 can (1 lb.) fruit cocktail
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 can (12 oz.) apricot nectar

Drain syrup from fruit cocktail, reserving fruit. Blend syrup with cornstarch in small saucepan; add apricot nectar. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened and clear. Fold in reserved fruit; cover and chill. Serve spooned generously over wedges of spicecake, angel cake or poundcake.

Reception Punch

Blend 1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrated lemonade mix with water according to label directions. Add 1 can (46 oz.) unsweetened orange juice, 1 can (46 oz.) apricot nectar and 3 large bottles (23 oz. each) ginger ale, chilled. Spoon 2 quarts orange sherbet into punch. Makes 8 quarts punch, or 64 half-cup servings.

Favorite Sandwich Ideas For Your File

Sandwiches for lunch, for picnic time, for snacking—any hour of the day sandwich spreads are in demand. Reba Staggs, home economist, has several suggestions for sandwich spreads to wisely have tucked away in your refrigerator for any one of these needs.

Spicy Ham—Put ½ pound of cooked ham, ¼ cup chopped pimiento, 1 green pepper through food chopper. Add ½ cup of chopped celery and mix with 6 tablespoons of mayonnaise. Yield: 2 cups.

Liverwurst-Celery—Mash ¼ pound of liverwurst and combine with 3 tablespoons softened butter or margarine, 1 cup finely chopped green onions and 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Yield: 1½ cups.

Chipped Beef-Cheese—Cut 1 2½-ounce jar of chipped beef into thin strips with scissors. Combine with 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, 1 teaspoon horseradish, 1 tablespoon minced onion. Yield: ¾ cup.

Liver-Bacon—Dice 4 slices of bacon and cook until crisp. Trim membrane from 1 pound thinly sliced liver and brown on both sides in bacon drippings, then cook until done, about 5 minutes. Put liver through food chopper. Combine liver, bacon, ½ cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon pickle relish and ½ cup mayonnaise. Yield: 2 cups.

Bacon-Prune—Dice 8 slices bacon and cook until crisp, pouring off fat as it accumulates. Drain bacon and combine with 1 cup finely chopped, cooked pitted prunes; 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle; 2 teaspoons prepared mustard and 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Chill. Yield: 1½ cups.

Zestful Swiss Salad Almost Meal In Itself

Hearty, refreshing chilled meat salads makes news on summer days. This zestful Swiss salad is practically a meal in itself. With it you need serve only potato chips, hot buttered rolls and a dessert.

According to Reba Staggs, home economist, to prepare Swiss salad for 4 to 6 servings, marinate 2 cups of cubed roast pork with 1 cup of cooked peas in French dressing. Allow them to chill. In fact, you can let the pork marinate in the dressing overnight and add the peas the next day.

When time to prepare the salad, drain the meat cubes and peas and add ½ cup of broken walnut meats. Arrange this combination on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with paprika and dot with mayonnaise.

In the meantime, hard-cook 2 eggs. When cool, cut the eggs into slices and remove the yolks. Arrange the white rings around the salad. Then cut stuffed olives into slices and place a ring of olives inside each ring of egg white. Press the yolks of the eggs through a sieve and sprinkle over the salad.

Guard against bad habits of speech—they're great spoilers of charm.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You're the last person to know it—when you've acquired a trick of speech that's annoying to others.

All too common is the too frequent use of a single expression, so often popular slang. As lively and apt as it was at first, it can be downright boring in a very short time, and irritating soon after that. Make a point of listening for certain words and phrases in your own speech—to avoid or correct a fault that can be more than tiresome to your long suffering friends.

To interlace conversation with the hesitant "uh" and meaningless "you know" and "you know what I mean"—instead of saying what you mean—makes you sound less intelligent than you are. Think before you speak and make your point in definite words. Otherwise few will care to converse with you. Interpretation of this vagueness is too much of an effort.

Bad faults can also loom on the side of speaking too quickly. Careful there, not to finish sentences for anyone else. Don't show, ever, that your mind races far ahead. For this reason too, among others, don't interrupt. Somehow, even those who are naturally courteous can fall into this habit in the heat of discussion, but interruption is unpleasant under any circumstances. Of course, everyone knows this, but watching for it may reveal that you've been interrupting constantly without any idea that you were.

And that's the point of bringing up the subject of unattractive traits of speech. They always seem to be the faults of others, never your own. Combine the above suggestions with the pointers given in my booklet, "Your Most Attractive Voice" address me, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin and stamped, self-addressed envelope, and then sit on the sidelines for a while and listen to yourself talk. A bad habit that you're so amazed to discover may have been doing much harm.

"Jam Session" Over For Homemaker

No more old-time "jam sessions" when homemakers spend long summer hours over boiling kettles to make their favorite strawberry jam.

There's something new in the air. The announcement comes from the U. S. Department of Agriculture of a new strawberry jam—made from fresh berries without cooking or even heating.

The making is quick, and easy. Pectin is stirred into the raw, crushed, sweetened berries and then the mixture is put into jelly glasses. Stored in the refrigerator, it holds its appetizing freshness for several months. The jam has a delicious fresh-fruit flavor, bright natural red color and a texture jelled just enough to hold its shape and spread well.

Developed by research in the Agriculture Department's human nutrition laboratories as part of a project on use of fresh fruit, the recipe also has had practical home-kitchen testing. The recipe for this new cold jam, just making its debut: Ingredients: 3 cups crushed or sieved strawberries; 5 cups sugar; 1 package powdered pectin; 1 cup water. To make: First, combine fruit and sugar and let stand about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Then, make pectin solution by stirring powdered pectin into the water, bringing it to boiling. Boiling rapidly one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add the pectin solution to the strawberry-sugar mixture. Stir about two minutes. Ladle into jelly glasses, cover and let stand at room temperature 24 to 48 hours, or until jelled. Seal with hot paraffin, cover with metal lids and store in the refrigerator until used. (This recipe may be used with sieved blackberries or raspberries.) Makes 9 to 10 six-ounce glasses.

Delinquency Link?

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Samuel Henry Prince, professor of sociology at King's College, Halifax, N.S., says there may be a link between lack of sleep and juvenile delinquency in New York City. "It is often hard to sleep in New York," the sociologist said.

One cubic mile of sea water contains more than 12 billion pounds of magnesium.

Army Hopes It Can Keep Three Divisions In Asia

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The Army hopes it can keep three divisions in the Far East, as at present, and still comply with Secretary of Defense Wilson's order to reduce manpower in the Japan-Korea area.

Officials indicated they are tentatively planning to comply with the order of bringing some supporting troops home, and reducing the size of the divisions.

High Pentagon officials who expressed this hope noted today that Wilson, in making public his plans to withdraw a division of troops, explained that it was up to the Army to work out the details.

In reply to an inquiry as to which division will be tagged for withdrawal, as forecast by the defense secretary on Sunday, the Army stated formally that the "extent and timing of reductions in force in the Far East have not been fully determined."

The Army's formal reply added that any force reduction would be carried out in such a way as to "maintain the maximum combat capability possible."

Army officials said informally, however, that present planning called for the maintenance of the existing three divisions and one airborne regimental combat team in the Far East so that there would be an organized force in being. To meet the higher-up decision to reduce Army manpower, however, the Army will propose bringing home about 17,000 individual officers and men, the equivalent to one combat division.

These officials said further that the men to be brought home would be drawn largely from supporting outfits such as supply and communications units.

In Japan and Korea today the Army has the 15th Cavalry Division, the 7th and 24th Infantry Divisions, and the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team.

These divisions are grouped in two corps headquarters which together with numerous supporting troops make up the 8th Army command.

Present Army strength in the Far East is about 150,000 men and even with the withdrawal of the equivalent of one division, the 8th Army will be stronger, particularly in combat manpower, than it

Senate Can Hustle When It Wants To, Despite Oratory

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The Senate can hustle right along when it wants to, in spite of Sitting Bull and the inclination of at least one senator to make the same speech twice.

The eyes of the world are on Geneva this week, as the heads of four nations meet. But in the Senate, legislative life must go on. And though a senator bows to no orator in his ability to loft the loftiest thoughts, considerable humdrum business still must be considered.

This is a side of congressional work rarely mentioned. But immigration snarls must be untangled, claims against the government must be paid, federally owned land must be sold.

In both houses the procedure in such bills is the same: The clerk calls out the number and title of the bill. If no one objects, the bill is passed.

A reporter clocked the Senate during one period when it was really rolling yesterday. In 10 minutes, the normally pokey Senate passed 30 bills, or one for each 20 seconds.

Naturally this pace wasn't kept up long, for various reasons.

Consider, for example, the case of Sen. Herbert Lehman (D-N.Y.). He had a speech on a proposed Philippine trade bill, and had sent copies of same to the press gallery. Lehman made his speech early. Then the trade bill came up, and here was Lehman with his speech already made.

Most observers felt Lehman recovered nicely. He grabbed a copy of the speech he already has made, and while he didn't make exactly the same speech, he came close.

That's why on pages 9167 and 9203 of today's "Congressional Record" Lehman is using precisely the same words.

"I need not recall what the Philippines recently did for the free world in the Bandung conference. In that historic meeting, it was the Philippines that led the forces of democracy against communism and neutralism."

Despite the doubleheader by Lehman, the bill didn't pass. The objection was made that it was so important it should be given full debate later.

But it was Sitting Bull, the great Sioux warrior, who really slowed the Senate.

A proposal was made to give North Dakota a piece of land where was when the Korean War broke out.

the chief "was originally buried." Up rose Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) to inquire gravely:

"Not to make a play on words, (D-Wyo) into the act. Come out and see me sometime, he told Douglas, and I'll show you the exact spot."

Well, one thing led to another, and the first thing we knew the Senate also was wondering what had happened to the bones of Sacajawea, who guided Lewis and Clark.

This brought Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) into the act. Come out and see me sometime, he told Douglas, and I'll show you the exact spot."

Douglas: "Mr. President, the Senate also has been made to me

(by the senators from North Dakota, South Dakota, Idaho, Montana, Washington and Oregon." (laughter)

For all the talk, no conclusive evidence was presented on the final resting places of either Sitting Bull or Sacajawea.

But the Sitting Bull bill passed, and the Senate hurried on.

Letters Reveal Napoleon Wasn't Above Opening His Wife's Mail "By Mistake"

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP) — Napoleon Bonaparte wasn't above opening his wife's mail "by mistake" when necessary. And in the field with the might of Europe arrayed against him, he could take time off to write her a scolding letter about stinging tipping.

These footnotes on the French Emperor's career are revealed in recently uncovered correspondence between "Nap," as he usually signed his letters, and his 22-year-old Hapsburg wife, Marie Louise, during the dark days immediately preceding his first great defeat and exile to Elba.

Excerpts from some of the 127 letters are published in the Collier's magazine issue out this week.

The correspondence was found a few years ago in an underground room in the Swedish royal palace where they had been consigned by Desirée, consort of the French Marshal Bernadotte who was later elected to the Swedish throne.

Napoleon's political marriage to the daughter of Austrian Emperor Francis I turned into a genuine love match. Although Marie Louise refused to follow him into exile — and later took lovers — Napoleon carried the letters with him until his final banishment to St. Helena. Then he turned them over to his older brother Joseph, King of Spain. Joseph in turned passed them along to his sister-in-law, Desirée, the Marseilles silk merchant's daughter who had been a youthful love of the little corporal.

Three years ago Swedish King Gustavus Adolphus gave permission to his private secretary, Baron Carl-Fredrik Palmstierna, for the translation and publication of the papers.

Portions of letters paint revealing self-portraits of Napoleon and his young wife. Bonaparte was 40 and divorced from Josephine when he married in 1810. He consistently wrote in an affectionate although slightly paternal manner to his wife, even when she was the titular regent of France, governing with the help of a traitor-ridden council when he was at the front — 100 miles from Paris.

The wily strategist showed that he was not above using her as a cat's paw when he was faced with disaster before the allied forces of the English, Swedish, Prussians, Russians and Austrians. He instructed her to make a peace bid to her father, commanding the Austrian units, based on sentiment.

"You would do well to write to him and to complain that you do not hear from him, that he has forgotten you, that he could help us while being useful to his monarchy; that he should be reasonable and have a will of his own, and not be the tool of England and Russia," Napoleon wrote. "In short, write to him in strong terms and those of your son . . ."

Francis made a noncommittal answer which was delivered at Napoleon's headquarters. "I am forwarding you a letter from your father," Napoleon wrote. "I opened it by mistake; tell me what it contains if it is of interest to me. My health is good though I am a little tired. . ."

Most of Napoleon's letters are staccato reports of victory, instructions and messages to her and their 3-year-old child, the King of Rome. Marie Louise's are a mixture of wifely affection, small anecdotes mixed up with accounts of portentous events, reports on her son's health — and a steady stream of complaints about her own health.

On one occasion, reporting a "bad cold in the head," the young Empress added: "All I wish for is not to be prevented by it from going to Mass tomorrow. However, since the news is good at present, there would be no harm . . ."

When Napoleon was winning, he sent her the sword of a captured Russian general. He also sent a large sum of money: 3,000 livres. "I hope," he wrote sternly a few days later, "you have given 3,000 livres to the courier who brought you the . . . sword. You must be generous. When couriers bring you good news, you must give them money, and when they are officers, diamonds."

Napoleon apparently knew his wife's failings. Actually, it turned out, she had given the courier 20 livres.

Here's Ike's Favorite Beef Stew

By RUSS GREENLEE
AP Newsfeatures

DUNN CENTER, N.D. — Ranchers' wives who call themselves the North Dakota Cow-Belles wrote Mamie Eisenhower for a beef stew recipe with presidential preference.

The request was part of their campaign to get folks to eat more beef, because the Cow-Belles are the auxiliary of the North Dakota Stockmen's Assn.

They got the recipe too. But the Cow-Belles were a bit taken aback at first because the recipe was for 60 portions. They rallied quickly and figured that all you have to do is divide everything by 10, starting with 2 pounds of stewing beef instead of 20. That will serve six persons.

Here's the Eisenhower recipe for beef stew in the original 60-portion form.

60 Servings

20 lbs. Stewing Beef
8 lbs. Small Irish Potatoes
6 Bunches Small Carrots
5 lbs. Small Onions
15 Fresh Tomatoes
1 Bunch Bouquet Spices
3 Gallons Beef Stock
Salt, Pepper to Taste

Stew beef until tender. Add vegetables and spice bouquet of thyme, bay leaves, garlic in cloth bag. When vegetables are done, strain off beef stock, thicken slightly. Remove spices. Pour stock back into stew. Simmer one-half hour. Serve.

Then you turn the family loose on it.

Spiced Fruit Punch

Simmer ½ cup sugar, 1 cup water, 10 whole cloves and 1 stick cinnamon in small saucepan 15 minutes; strain and cool. Combine 1 can (6 oz.) frozen lemon juice, 1 can (6 oz.) orange beverage concentrate, 1 can (6 oz.) fruit punch concentrate, 3 cups water, 1 No. 2 can (1 pt. 2 fl. oz.) unsweetened pineapple juice and cooled sugar syrup; blend thoroughly. Add large bottle (28 oz.) ginger ale, chilled. Pour over ice. Makes 3 quarts punch, or 24 half-cup servings.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 21 (INS) — The husband-and-wife team of Margo and Eddie Albert will emote in "I'll Cry Tomorrow," but not as husband and wife. Eddie reported early this week for his role of Burt McGuire, present husband of Lillian Roth, played in the MGM movie by Susan Hayward.

Margo joins the cast tomorrow for Selma, the girl who introduces Eddie to Susan.

It's the first picture Margo has made in three years. Most of that time she has been appearing in nightclubs with Eddie or just staying home minding their four-year-old, Eddie Jr.

Miss LOP tells us that while she was in Rome she had a most interesting visitor, Pulitzer Prize winning playwright Tennessee Williams. The author of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" told the boss that he was leaving for Spain where he will work on his new play.

"Although he didn't say so," Miss P. said, "I got the impression it is for Anna Magnani." (The Italian actress is the star of the film version of another Williams' play "Rose Tattoo.")

"The visit of Williams was a little embarrassing," laughed the boss, "because I'm already on record as opposed to making a movie of his 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof.'"

"I don't know why MGM bought the play which will have to be scrubbed beyond recognition before it's fit for the screen."

Never say that Mike Frankovich isn't brave, planning to hold the preview of "Joe Macbeth" at Stratford-on-Avon.

Feeling has run high in both London and Shakespeare's birthplace over this gangster satire on "Macbeth" which Mike is making with Paul Douglas. Most of the British press took sideswipes at Mike's "gall" in making the picture, particularly in England where they have a ban on many of our violent gangster films.

Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh don't expect to be home from their European assignments before Christmas. While he's making "Trapeze," Tony will live in an apartment on the left bank which has already been leased for him by Hecht-Lancaster.

"I like that," Tony told me. "I've always liked dabbling around in paints and maybe the address will give me inspiration."

Janet will have to keep on the move between London and Africa making "Safari" with Vic Matur. When both pictures are finished, the Curtises swear they're taking a slow boat through the Panama Canal for their return trip for that real rest and vacation they've promised each other for so long.

Pork Casserole Savory Through All Six Layers

At this time of year, no matter how much you enjoy cooking, the outdoors is particularly tempting. A meal-in-one casserole takes care of both of these desires. You can prepare the casserole, put it in the oven, then go outside for garden chores while it cooks.

Six-layer sausage casserole is Richards, her more or less steady, didn't give it to her.

Dana Wynter says she met Marlon Brando at a party and liked talking with him. But all of her dates recently have been with Richard Egan although he's just a "friend," too.

Barbecued Lamb Riblets

There will be no coaxing the family to the dinner table when you serve barbecued lamb riblets. They are a hearty, flavorful serving and you will find them an economical choice.

According to Reba Staggs, meat expert, your meat retailer prepares the riblets from a lamb breast. He removes the breast bone first, then cuts down between the ribs resulting in the individual riblets.

For barbecuing, brown the riblets on all sides in 2 or 3 tablespoons of lard or drippings. Allow approximately ½ pound riblets per serving. Next pour off drippings and add your favorite barbecue sauce, about 1 cup for each pound of riblets. Then cover the meat closely and let it simmer in the barbecue sauce for 1½ hours or until tender. Arranged on a platter of rice, the barbecued riblets are a zesty serving.

White Sox Triumph, 9-6, Shave Yanks' Lead To One Game

Kennedy Hits 2-Run Double To Win Game

Dixie Howell Stars In Relief; 114,542 See 3-Game Series

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—The rampaging Chicago White Sox outlasted first-place New York 9-6 today in a blustery tilt in which Bob Kennedy's two-run double broke a 6-6 tie in the seventh to shave the Yankees' margin over the Pale Hose to one game.

It took a fine seven-inning relief stint by Dixie Howell, third Chicago hurler, to give the Sox the rubber game of a crucial three-contest series before 30,962.

The stand against the Yankees, including two night games, lured a total of 114,542 through the Comiskey Park turnstiles. It was the third relief victory in seven days for the 35-year-old Howell, who has given up only two runs in 10 2/3 innings. Howell was acquired from Memphis of the Southern Assn., by the White Sox in June.

The elongated right-handed Sox fireman now has a 4-1 record. The loser was Eddie Lopat, who followed Whitey Ford and Tom Morgan to the mound. Lopat now has a 4-7 record.

Most of the action in the fast-starting game came in the first three innings at which point the game was knotted at 6-6.

Starter Virgil Trucks and Morrie Martin took the Sox mound before Howell appeared to start the third. Andy Carey's bases-loaded triple to the 415-foot center field fence was the blow that killed Trucks. All four Yankee runs in the first came after two were out, Mickey Mantle doubling across the first marker.

The victory gave Colaw a 2-2 record for the campaign. Wayne "Lefty" Flegle took the loss, his second against as many wins. Farrady Post had beaten Grantsville, 6-5 and 8-0 in the first two games of the series.

Grantsville scored in every inning but the sixth and nicked Flegle and George Bishards for 15 safeties, including two-baggers by Toby Colaw, Dewitt, Bolyard and Bender. Bolyard paced the attack with three hits while Mazer, Toby and Fred Colaw, Garrett and Bender had two safeties each.

House's Home Run Sinks Orioles, 1-0

DETROIT, July 21 (AP)—A sizzling home run by catcher Frank House, backed by the six-hit pitching of southpaw Billy Hoelt, enabled the Detroit Tigers to etch out a 1-0 victory over the sagging Baltimore Orioles today.

Hoelt, who now has a 10-3 record, also smashed two singles during his first appearance against Baltimore this season, but neither club could parlay brief rallies into scoring sprees.

Baltimore right-hander Hector (Skinny) Brown, who went the distance in his first start since joining the Orioles—gave up six hits, scattered singles with the exception of House's liner into the second deck in right field.

Brown, a former Boston Red Sox pitcher, was brought up Tuesday from Oakland in the Pacific Coast League.

Moose Shatter Eagles 10-Game Winning Skein

Elliott Is Winner Over Al Sheetz, 5-4

Two winning streaks came to an end yesterday when the Loyal Order of Moose defeated the Fraternal Order of Eagles in a Rocking Chair Softball League game at Stitzer Field by the score of 5-4.

The Eagles saw their 10-game victory string snapped and Al Sheetz also suffered his first setback in 11 outings.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott won his own game in the third inning when his sacrifice fly scored Thompson with what proved to be the winning marker. The tally capped a four-run outburst by the Moose and gave Elliott his ninth win against seven defeats.

Boyle singled to open the third, Bob Wade walked and Jimmy Angellata beat out a hit to load the bases. Thompson singled home two runs and Angellata also came home on an outfield error. Elliott's fly sent Thompson over the platter.

The win gave the Moose an even break in the series. Prior to the Eagles' long winning streak the Moose edged the Eagles on May 25 by the score of 8-7. The Eagles won the second and third games by scores of 4-3 and 6-4. Sheetz suffered his second loss against 10 triumphs.

"Red" Ingram's double was among the five hits yielded by Elliott. Toar Spier had two of the winners' six safeties. Bob Wade, Moose third sacker, and Jim Fradiska, Eagles' shortstop, were the fielding stars. Score:

Indians Edge Nats In 10th

Wertz's Bases Loaded Double Decides, 4-3

CLEVELAND, July 21 (AP)—With two out in the last of the ninth, pinch hitter Vic Wertz hit a bases-loaded double to revive the Cleveland Indians, and with two out in the tenth the Tribe today beat the Washington Nats 4-3 on singles by Al Smith and Larry Doby.

Washington's win streak was stopped at five games. Johnny Schmitz, Washington southpaw, was within one out of victory in the ninth. His club was leading 3-0, mainly on Carlos Paula's seventh inning homer and another in the eighth by Jose Valdivielso, his first in the major leagues. Both homers were off starter Art Houtteman.

But consecutive singles by Ferris Fain, Sam Dente and Hank Foiles filled the bases and when Jim Hegan was announced as a pinch hitter for Cleveland's Don Mossi, Dean Stone took the mound. Wertz batted instead of Hegan and cleaned the bases.

44 of Thanks

We take this means of expressing public sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved sister, Susan L. Beckley. We are grateful to those who sent flowers or donated to the use of cars for the funeral, and all others who assisted in any manner. We are especially grateful to Rev. William J. Yingling.

Allegany County ranks sixth in sales of Series E and H savings bonds in Maryland at the end of the first six months of 1955, Lynn C. Lashley, county bond sales chairman, announced.

Lashley pointed out that, at the halfway point in the savings bond program, Allegany County had accomplished 56.8 per cent of its quota of $3,000,000 by selling $1,706,022 by the close of June.

For the month of June alone there were $209,541 worth of savings bonds sold in the county, Lashley added.

These figures compared to the halfway total of the state which reached $33,327,808, or 46.9 per cent of Maryland's 1955 goal of $71,000,000. National sales of E and H savings bonds for the six-month period rose to $2,900,000, which is 51.9 per cent of the year's sales objective of $5,500,000.

Worcester County leads the state in percentage of quota achieved with 78.7 per cent of its $510,000 goal for the year. Howard County is second with 65.8 per cent and Queen Annes County third, with 62.4 per cent of sales achievement.
